Grand Jury May Be Asked To Investigate Outfall

REPORT BY WATER CHIEF IS APPROVED

Committee to Recommend That Matter Be Placed Up to Inquisitorial Body

BEACH CHAMBER ACTS

Will Appeal to Probe Or- ganization to Abate Un- pleasant Drainage Odors

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 3.—Alleged unsanitary conditions existing along the outfall sewer line at the mouth of the Santa Ana river probably will be called to the attention of the Orange county grand jury by the city of Newport Beach and abatement of the nuisance will be asked, it was reported here today, following a meeting of a special committee of Newport Beach citizens.

The committee was appointed by Newport Beach councilmen last week and is headed by Stuart Cundiff, Newport water department superintendent.

Other members of the committee include Dr. G. M. Grundy, city health officer; Franklin G. West, city attorney; Lew H. Wallace and J. P. Greeley. The committee investigated conditions along the outfall sewer line and, at the special meeting here, unanimously approved Cundiff's recent report to the city officials. The committee also determined to recommend to the city trustees that the matter be placed before the grand jury.

At the same time that the outfall sewer committee was meeting a special committee of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce met and unanimously agreed to appeal to the Orange county grand jury to take steps to abate the unpleasant odor coming from drainage ditches emptying into the upper part of Newport bay. The odors, while not harmful, are exceedingly unpleasant, according

SEES POSSIBILITY OF BOURBON SPLIT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Senator Blease, Democrat, South Carolina, today predicted a split in the Democratic party if the two-thirds rule is advocated at its next national convention.

"I have advised that the South Carolina delegation will walk out of the convention if the present two-thirds rule is abolished," Blease said. "Such a change would rob the south of any voice in the selection of a candidate and its delegates might as well absent themselves."

Blease said he was ready to support Gov. Alfred Smith or any other candidate who might be chosen by a two-thirds majority, although opposed to Smith as the Democratic candidate.

He predicted formation of a third party if a majority rule is instituted.

Blease has promised to break with his party in the senate next week by voting to seat Senators-elect Smith and Vane on the ground it would be a violation of state rights to bar them.

London Probes Connection Of Arrested Pair

Requested Delivery of In- formation to Soviet Em- bassy Charged

LONDON, Dec. 3.—While Russian disarmament delegates were waiting at Geneva in hope of a reconciliation conference with British Foreign Minister Sir Austen Chamberlain, the prosecuting attorney in a spy case at Bow street police court today said that Russia was concerned in the affair.

George Monkland, a marine insurance man, testified that one of the two defendants has asked him to obtain information of military value and had told him if the defendant was out of town to deliver the information to an attaché at the Russian embassy in London.

It was announced that evidence of a government agent who worked on the case would be given in secret. The agent was described in court as using the assumed name "Peter Hamilton."

The case was that of Wilfred McCartney, 29, reported to be an Irish-American and George Hansen, 24, said to be a German.

Hansen and McCartney were arrested November 17, after a raid upon their residences. They are charged at their first court hearing November 29 that they had "collected information calculated to be useful to a foreign power."

Inspector Coggrave, of Scotland Yard, then testified that documents found in their possession included the addresses of people in Holland and Germany. They appeared in court again later and were remanded until today.

Wanted Arms Information

Outlining the prosecution's case in court today, Sir Travers Humphreys charged that McCartney had approached George Monkland, a marine insurance underwriter, and asked him to obtain information of shipments of arms

HOSPITAL BLAMED FOR GIRL'S DEATH

NAPA, Calif., Dec. 3.—Armed with a coroner's verdict, blaming the Oakland Highland hospital in connection with the death of Kathleen Jackson, District Attorney Earl Warren returned to Alameda county today to continue investigation of the institution.

A coroner's jury late yesterday found that Miss Jackson had taken poison with suicidal intent and that she had been sent from the Highland hospital to the state hospital while in no condition to make the trip.

Dr. George W. Austin, superintendent of the Napa hospital, testified he had written a letter to Alameda authorities protesting the treatment of the girl and said she was in a state of collapse on reaching the state institution.

'When in Mexico, Do As Mexicans,' Is Rogers' Motto

ABOARD PRESIDENT CALLES' SPECIAL TRAIN, en route to Aguas Calientes, Mexico, Dec. 3.—Will Rogers, cowboy comedian and self-appointed unofficial American ambassador to the world at large, was revealed today as the personification of the man in the magazines who learns how to do things.

Armed with a pocket-sized volume entitled "Spanish in One Week," Rogers is talking to Mexico in her own language.

With Dwight W. Morrow, official American ambassador, Rogers is on a tour of this section of Mexico as the guest of President Calles.

All along the route, Rogers is arousing cheers from the populace with his brave efforts to speak Spanish.

Both President Calles and Morrow are receiving cordial cheers wherever their train halts. Cries of "Long live the president and the American ambassador" greet them.

SENATE FACTIONS NEAR ARMISTICE TO AVOID BLOCKADE AT OPENING SESSION

Refused Meal To Beggars; Hit With Brick

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 3.—Because he refused two men who asked him for the price of a meal, Harold G. Billings, 38, Niles, Mich., was in St. John's hospital today, suffering from scalp wounds. The disgruntled beggars hit Billings over the head with a brick.

Charles Jackson, Kansas City, and George Belle, Chicago, were picked up nearby and are being held by police.

Independents Want Assur- ance Their Bills Will Receive Action

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Leaders of the warring factions in the senate indicated late today they would agree to declare an armistice at the opening of congress Monday so President Coolidge can deliver his message Tuesday.

Senator James A. Reed, Democrat, Missouri, declared he had no objection to such a plan if it would not prejudice the situation concerning seating the Senators-elect Vane, Republican, Pennsylvania, and Smith, Republican, Illinois.

Independent Republicans, in a meeting this afternoon, decided to seek more definite assurances from Senator Curtis, Republican, floor leader, that legislation in which they are interested will be given a permanent place on the senate calendar.

Earlier in the day Curtis had written them suggesting that their legislation could not be held up and promising his personal support to assure early action. The independents decided, however, to ask Curtis to obtain promises from Republican members of interested committees so that they could be

FILM EXTRA FILES HEART BALM SUIT

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 3.—Painting a vivid picture of a shattered romance, Eleanor B. Cox, film extra, today brought a $100,000 breach of promise suit against C. L. Langley, Los Angeles financier. In her suit, the actress told of a whirlwind courtship she alleges was carried on by Langley. They met September 12, she declares, and after five days Langley persuaded her to leave her home in Culver City, a film center, and live in a Los Angeles hotel. During this time, she asserts, the financier represented himself as a single man.

On September 30, the suit further maintains, Langley admitted he was married, but declared he would go to Reno and obtain a divorce. On this information Miss Cox told him she wished nothing more to do with him and hated him, it is claimed.

Screen Director Free On Bond In Alleged Assault

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—Arrested in municipal court here today on charges of assault with intent to murder, William Nigh, prominent film director, and Bert Trowbridge, his chauffeur, were released until December 12 under $10,000 bond each.

They are charged with attacking Edward Usher, Jr., former Michigan football star. Usher is said to be recovering from scalp wounds suffered when Nigh is alleged to have struck him over the head with an automobile crank.

The whereabouts of Jean Jarvis, motion picture actress, asserted to have been the object of the controversy, was unknown to police today. They are seeking her to learn her version of the attack, which took place last Saturday night, in Laurel canyon, following a party.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—Mrs. Mattie McCauliffe, who gave up millions and Augustus P. Minchew, wealthy oil operator, of Denver and Dallas, for McLaurine McCauliffe, handsome automobile salesman, occupied a cell in the county jail today, charged with suspicion of burglary.

Meanwhile detectives grilled McCauliffe in the Hollywood police station, charging that the couple is responsible for the looting of fashionable Hollywood homes to the extent of between $200,000 and $300,000. McCauliffe nonchalantly denies the allegations and declares he was "framed."

DAM SETTLEMENT HOPED FOR TODAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—Engineers representing California, Arizona and Nevada gathered in San Francisco today in what was hoped to be a final meeting to solve the problem of distribution of power to be generated at the Boulder canyon dam.

Today's meeting follows long conferences between experts representing Nevada and Arizona, who prepared a report for the two states.

The engineers hoped to complete their negotiations today and the report then will be submitted to a joint meeting of the Colorado river commissioners of the three states.

LONDON TO AFRICA FLYER IN TRIPOLI

LONDON, Dec. 3.—The Daily Express today said John Carberry, who is attempting a record flight from London to Cape Town, South Africa, arrived at Tripoli.

Carberry and a mechanic left Crofton near London on November 18. He landed at Lebourg and was forced down at Malta.

Smith, Pond Fail To Break Flight Record

Air Pockets Force Flyers Down; Less Than Three Hours in Air

MILLS FIELD, San Francisco, Dec. 3.—Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and Lt. George Pond brought the monoplane "Spirit of California" to a safe landing at the Mills field airport at 11:16 a. m., today.

They immediately announced they would take off shortly after dawn tomorrow in a second attempt to break the world's endurance flight record.

Both Kingsford-Smith and Pond said they were greatly disappointed at the failure of today's attempt, but that it would have been dangerous to remain in the air longer.

The plane took off at 8:55 a. m., and after cruising down San Francisco bay, swung out a short distance over the ocean.

Air pockets made the flight dangerous, they said, because the tail of the plane wobbled and they momentarily feared it would go into a tailspin.

AL SMITH DEFENDS WET ORGANIZATION

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 3.—Gov. Alfred E. Smith, Democratic presidential possibility, last night voiced his opinions of prohibition and its enforcement.

The governor told members of the New York State League of Women Voters that he stood for law enforcement but that "one of the fundamental rights of citizenship is the right of our people to organize to oppose any law and any part of the constitution with which they are not in sympathy."

The question of prohibition law enforcement is not one for either the nation or the state, Smith said. He declared it was a local issue.

Governor Smith pointed out the Anti-Saloon league planned to raise $50,000 for their work during the coming five years. He raised the question why the forces opposed to prohibition did not have just as much right to organize.

PINCHOT WOULD AID PROBE OF POWER CONTROL

Four-Fifths of Electricity Controlled by Five In- terests, Charge

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, today offered to submit evidence of a huge electric monopoly to the senate in case it decided to investigate that industry.

In an open letter to Senator Thomas Walsh, Democrat, Montana, Pinchot said the concentration of public utilities in a few hands was a menace to the economic freedom of the American people.

Forty-one corporations, three-quarters of which are dominated, owned or controlled by the General Electric company, of New York; Doherty, of New York; Morgan, of

BANK AND ESTATE COMPROMISE SUIT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—The $127,000 suit brought against the Pacific Southwest bank four years ago by trustees of the bankrupt estate of E. Y. Foley, nationally known San Joaquin valley grape shipper, was settled today on a compromise of $97,388.

The suit was taken to the U. S. circuit court and supreme court after Judge Paul J. McCormick, district court, gave judgment four years ago against the bank for illegal retention of funds claimed by the estate.

Today the suit was returned to Judge McCormick for his signature and a compromise agreement between Theodore M. Stuart, Fresno attorney, representing the Foley interests, and bank officials resulted.

The bank now is consolidated as the Pacific Southwest Trust and Savings bank.

Visit To Havana To Be Coolidge's First Out of U. S.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—President Coolidge's planned visit to Havana, Cuba, in January, for the opening of the Pan-American conference, will be the first he has made to foreign shores.

Described by some as a "stay-at-home" president, Mr. Coolidge on this occasion will be absent from the capital nearly a week and from the nation itself about 43 hours.

Accompanied by Secretary of State Kellogg and possibly Secretary of the Navy Wilbur Mr. Coolidge plans to sail from Key West, Fla., on a naval vessel about January 19, arriving in the Cuban capital in the afternoon. His address to the opening session of the conference would take place next day and departure for Washington either that afternoon or next morning.

REPORT ON AGRICULTURE

Claims Dollar Has Buying
Power Only 8 Per Cent
Below Pre-War Status

OPPOSES PRICE FIXING

Extension of Co-operative
Marketing Favored; Advises Change in Tariff

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Better times for farmers were predicted today by Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, in his annual report. Pointing out that the farmer's dollar now has a buying power only eight per cent below the pre-war level, Jardine outlined specific ideas for continuing improvement of the farmer's lot.

He favored extension of co-operative marketing, urging a statute for large farm business organizations, owned and controlled by farmers and managed by strong executives chosen by the producers.

He opposed government participation in farm business and especially opposed governmental price fixing.

Favors Farm Board

He favored a federal farm board to protect both farmers and the public's interests and advocated long term mortgage credits for farmers.

The states, he said, could add materially in putting agriculture on a firmer basis by correcting certain banking, taxation and public expenditure practices. In this connection, he noted that many sections are "over banked," leading to bank failures and consequent bankruptcy for some farmers.

He advised a change in present tariffs and counseled alterations to relieve the agriculturist of some onerous tax burdens.

Urges Public Aid

Jardine also emphasized that aid other than financial could be given the farmer so his net income would

PINCHOT WOULD AND PROBE OF POWER GROUPS

New York: Ryan, of New York, and Insull, of Chicago, control four-fifths of all electric energy produced in this country, Pinchot charged.

In the letter, Pinchot says: "You have announced your intention to reintroduce your resolution for an investigation of concentration in the control of electric power. In the event of its passage, and if you so desire, I am prepared to submit facts which I believe furnish definite proof of the existence, ownership and extent of this concentration, together with material on methods of financing stock inflation and the exploitation of the electric monopoly."

Danger in Concentration
"For more than 20 years far-sighted men have called the attention of the American people to the danger of self-government and economic freedom which lies in the growing concentration of electric power in a few hands without adequate public regulation."

"In the message in which, as governor, I laid the giant power plan for the development and regulation of electric power before the Pennsylvania legislature, three years ago, I said on this subject:

"There already is advancing with immense rapidity a consolidation of companies engaged in supplying this universal source of power which has already far transcended state lines and has, in many respects, reached national proportions. The situation which this consolidation clearly foretells is like one in which every source of steam power in America should be under the control of a single monster corporation. In the face of such a concentration of capital and power, the states and nation can maintain their industrial freedom and ability to govern themselves only through the medium of effective public regulation."

Would Become Plague
"Nothing like this gigantic monopoly ever has appeared in the history of the world. Nothing has even remotely approached it in the even remotely approaches it in the thorough-going, intimate, unceasing control it may exercise over the daily life of every human being within the web of its wires. It is immeasurably the greatest industrial fact of our time. If uncontrolled, it will be a plague without previous example. If effectively controlled in the public interest it can be made incomparably the greatest material blessing in human history."

"At once the electric interests disputed these statements and have continued to dispute them ever since."

"During the last year a study of this question has been carried on under my direction by an expert in whose ability and integrity I have full confidence. His report definitely establishes the truth of what I said. It shows that the coming nation-wide electric monopoly is very much further advanced than the propaganda of the electric interests has permitted the public to surmise. The study is not fully completed but it has gone far enough to establish these facts:

"Forty-one corporations control four-fifths of all the electric energy produced in the United States. Out of the 66,732,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity produced in 1926, these 41 corporations produced 54,713,000,000."

Monopolize All Sources
"These 41 corporations have a total capitalization of ten thousand two hundred million dollars. They monopolize all the sources of electric power for four-fifths of our people. Eighty-five million seven hundred thousand Americans must get electricity from these 41 corporations or go without."

"Of these 41 corporations, 29, or about three-quarters, are already known to be dominated, owned, or controlled by five men or corporations and their associates. These five dominant electrical interests are the General Electric company, of New York; Doherty, of New York; Morgan, of New York; Ryan, of New York, and Insull, of Chicago. It is altogether probable that most if not all of the remaining 12, also will be found to be dominated, owned, or controlled in the same way. But if the five major interests do, in fact, control only the 29 corporations, still their assets are capitalized at six thousand million dollars, ($6,990,000,000) and they produced in 1926 more than half of all the electricity used in the United States."

"The five controlling interests are allied, but not so far as we know actually under any single head. But they are tied together, first by their common interest in maintaining their present power to collect extortionate rates from their customers. The combined electric lobby now in Washington, which represents them all, is proof enough of that."

All Tied Together
"Secondly, they are tied together by common ownership in certain companies, by common investment interests, by common directors and, doubtless, in many other ways not yet disclosed."

"These facts are evidence of the prodigiously rapid growth of a nation-wide electric monopoly and they justify abundantly such warnings as are quoted above. Their significance to our people not only economically and industrially, but politically also, is almost beyond exaggeration. They have a direct and most important bearing on the overshadowing issue in America, which is the control of government by monopolists for the purposes of monopoly. In this attack on self-government and economic freedom the electric interests form the head of the spear. It is of the most urgent importance that this fact should be understood."

BETTER TIMES ARE PREDICTED IN AGRICULTURE

increase. Public agencies for instance, could co-operate with the farmer to achieve a better balance between production and demand.

"Efforts should be made," he said, "to diminish waste, to lessen margins between producers and consumers prices, to reduce transportation and distribution costs and to lessen the farmers' overhead charges by lowering or redistributing tax burdens by improving agriculture credit facilities."

Bargaining Power
"Farmers should be encouraged to enhance their bargaining power through co-operative marketing and the responsibility of the public in helping to reduce price fluctuations due to unavoidable gluts and shortages of agriculture products should be recognized in a practical manner."

Concerning cotton, Jardine said, "From the standpoint of price, the improvement has been remarkable and it is estimated that should cotton continue at the present level, returns to farmers for lint alone will exceed by about $150,000,000 the income from last year's crop."

six years ago after securing a divorce from the oil magnate and leaving her luxurious home for what she now terms "a life of hell," during which time she supported McCauliffe.

Seated in a cell in the county jail today, garbed in prison raiment, a striking contrast to the jeweled and fur-coated woman who was taken into custody with McCauliffe, she declared that her pride kept her from confessing that she had made a mistake and breaking with McCauliffe.

She said that she had $100,000 when she married McCauliffe, but that she had been forced to support him and her money gradually dwindled away.

Met in Denver
They met in a Denver automobile dealership, where he sold her a red roadster and captured her heart. The couple was arrested after McCauliffe is alleged to have entered the home of Mrs. Burnette Clapp, apartment house owner while Mrs. McCauliffe is asserted to have engaged Mrs. Clapp on the pretext of renting an apartment.

The small daughter of the apartment house proprietor was left in the house and, when McCauliffe is asserted to have entered the place, the little girl demanded to know his business, and he fled, after asking for a glass of water.

Both were taken into custody by detectives later.

NEW PRISON CAMP POLICY ANNOUNCED

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 3.—Encouragement of thrift among convicts employed in California road camps and elimination of "personal publicity" about such convicts were the highlights of a new state policy governing prison camps, announced today by Burt B. Meek, director of public works.

"Turning the spotlight too much upon the prisoners tends to disturb camp discipline," Meek said, "and imbues an attitude of hero worship both on the part of the prisoners and the public. We don't want them to be 'sob sisters' into any feeling of self pity."

The state will seek to increase the money saved by the prisoners during their employment in prison camps—the money to be used as a fund to tide them through the readjustment period after their release.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS HOLD REUNION AT ANAHEIM

One hundred and fifty Y. M. C. A. boys of Orange county today were recalling the pleasures of a reunion last night at the city park at Anaheim, of boys who attended the summer camp.

The evening started with a barbecue dinner and was concluded with an address, a number of musical selections and award of medals to boys who manifested the best camp spirit and participated to the greatest extent in camp activities. While the basis of award is such that it is possible for every boy to attain the credit necessary for the medal, all did not receive them. A good majority of the boys present last night, however, today were proudly wearing the emblems.

The address of the evening was by the Rev. C. C. Root, pastor of the First Christian church at Anaheim.

Whiteman Falls Away To Mere 298 Lbs.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 3.—Paul Whiteman is getting thin. He weighs 298 pounds now.

The king of jazz who once was so fat he eclipsed all but the end men of his orchestra has trimmed away 30 pounds and is well on his way to being only just as rotund as a brass drum.

Whiteman expects to reduce another 15 or 20 pounds before he feels he will be in proportion to the stage and his orchestra, he said.

Folsom Guards May Be Named In Investigation

FOLSOM, Calif., Dec. 3.—With the disclosure that a Folsom prison guard was discharged last February for plotting with convicts the belief was strengthened today that the present investigation of the Thanksgiving day riots would include guards as well as convicts.

Following the guard's discharge, according to Clarence A. Larkin, captain of the guard, two revolvers were found in the prison. Plotting for the recent riot, which caused the death of 13 men and wounding of a score, may have dated back to February, Larkin declares.

Convicts continued their conferences with attorneys today and indications were that at least three would have benefit of counsel at the hearing before Justice John Leonard, in justice court, next week. Several well known Sacramento criminal attorneys have been engaged as lawyers.

MEXICAN BANDITS RELEASE AMERICAN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Thomas W. Thompson, American citizen, captured by Mexican bandits at his mine near Copala, Sinaloa, November 25, has been released unharmed, American Consul Blocker, at Mazatlan, informed the state department today.

Thompson was held for ransom, but the consul's message did not indicate whether it was paid. American officials in Mexico had made representations to Mexican authorities on request of Mrs. T. W. Thompson, the miner's wife, who is now in Berkeley, Calif.

Christmas Tree Cutters Warned

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 3.—M. B. Pratt, state forester, promises Christmas trees and red berry cutters and merchants a "rousing reception" when they take the field in search of wares for the holiday trade, unless they adhere strictly to the law.

Warnings have been sent to forest rangers and wardens to enforce the statute enacted by the last legislature requiring written consent of land owners before berries or trees are cut on private property.

Failure to comply with the law lays the violator liable to a heavy fine, in addition to having the trees and berries confiscated. Confiscated goods will be given to the poor.

Sir Travers Humphreys called Monckland to the stand. Monckland testified that McCartney gave him instructions to deliver to an attaché at the Soviet embassy here any important information he might obtain while McCartney was absent.

Monckland said that through the aid of a British government agent he gave McCartney a secret book of regulations on training of aviators. The book, Monckland said, was nearly obsolete and so of no military value.

McCartney, Monckland said, asked him to find whether the British government had made an allotment of money for airplanes in addition to those authorized by parliament.

Monckland testified that McCartney paid him several sums of from $125 to $175.

The evening that the Soviet trade delegation headquarters was raided last spring, Monckland swore, McCartney telephoned to him to hide or destroy any documents. The case was adjourned until Monday.

DIES OF HEART FAILURE WHEN CLOTHES BURN

Fire which started when an oil soaked sack burst into flames resulted in the death early this morning of John Scott, pioneer La Habra resident, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Wilbur Shannon, in La Habra.

Death was due directly to heart failure, the excitement of extinguishing his flaming clothing proving too great a strain on Scott's heart, the attending physician said.

Scott, in searching for a match, climbed a ladder of the tank house on his farm on Palm avenue, La Habra. He struck a match and an oil soaked sack immediately caught fire. Scott's clothing became ignited, his arms and legs being burned before he could extinguish the flames. He was taken to the home of Mrs. Shannon and passed away at 2 a. m.

The body was taken to the White-Emerson parlors in Whittier. Funeral arrangements will be made later.

Scott is survived by his widow and three sons, John Scott Jr., Russell Scott and Arthur, of Los Angeles, and four daughters, Hazel Burnett, of Whittier; Mrs. Wilbur Shannon, of La Habra; Mrs. L. Hawks, of Los Angeles; and Ann Scott, of San Francisco.

The fire last night was the second on the Scott ranch in the past year, the family home being destroyed by flames several months ago.

Editor Register:—Only a few days ago it was my good fortune to talk to the head of one of the oldest life insurance companies. We got to comparing salaries, took the salaries of two executives of the walnut growers ($40,000) and figured what percentage of gross receipts that sum represented, it seemed a mere fraction, I will admit, but when he figured out that the combined salaries of his firm (a $400,000,000 outfit) from office boy to president was just about the same percentage, he quickly conceded that I had just cause for complaint and was frank in saying that his company could not continue in business if their percentage for salaries was as great as the farmers. It seems to me that the Walnut Growers' association has grown like a large city, the voters have to elect men that they never had a chance to know personally. Nine out of 10 farmers will not hesitate to stand up and scrap it out with their fists, but when it comes to getting up on the floor before 500 or 600 people and expressing disapproval of a candidate or business policy, he just isn't there.

It might be of more than passing interest to know that at this time there is talk of starting another walnut growers' association to be just an Orange county firm.

We have men in this county that are capable of taking care of the sales and manager parts. Men that we can meet on short notice, and if they should not measure up to standard we will be in a better position to recall them.

Many will take exception to some of these remarks, but before publicly criticizing me, get an opinion from a bank president or any of our local superior judges, past and present. Pick 12 men as you would pick a jury and see if 13 am guilty or not of advocating anything at this time that is detrimental to the growers, in particular, and the county in general.

Shortly many of us hope to have a general meeting to discuss in an informal way some mode of procedure. We want to have directors of the local walnut houses present. We will try to produce evidence of our intelligence and unselfishness, and sincerely hope that every one will be convinced that the only way to enjoy prosperity is by co-operation spelled with a capital "C."

Respectfully,
CHAS. F. HAVENS.

LITTLE CHILD'S DEATH MYSTERY TO PHYSICIANS

Funeral services for little Virginia Bullock, aged two years and five months, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bullock, 505 Wisteria Place, will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the Winbiger Mission Funeral home, it was announced today.

The little girl's death came suddenly early yesterday morning after an illness of only five hours. A post-mortem held last night, revealed a toxic condition that her system had evidently been unable to cope with, although she had been an unusually strong and healthy child. Virginia was the grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Thomas, 914 South Main street, and had been born on the day of the death of their son, the late Leslie Thomas, Mrs. Bullock was formerly Miss Beulah Thomas.

Adding to the sad feature of the death, is the fact that another grandchild of the Thomas home, little Beverly June Deardorff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Thomas, died very nearly as suddenly, a little over a year ago.

STATE SPENDS 30 MILLIONS ON ROAD WORK

The present year will pass into history as the best to date in highway construction work in California, it is revealed in preliminary reports of these activities received by the Automobile Club of Southern California. When the final figures for 1927 are available, they are expected to show that in Southern California alone more than $30,000,000 will have gone into new roads, new bridges, widening, resurfacing, realigning and general improvement.

These millions represent the total provided by the cities, counties, road districts, state and federal aid. While this estimate is only preliminary, it is believed to be conservative.

Curves Eliminated
Notable among the projects completed this year are the Mountain Springs grade on the state highway between San Diego and El Centro. This former seven miles of bad curves and climbing is now a smooth paved highway and it is expected that by the first of the year the Meyer's Canyon road, washed out during the last heavy rains in Imperial valley, will be relocated and completed.

Paving has been completed through Laguna Beach and the state highway through the Ringe ranch has been graded through Oxnard and Hueneme Beach. This stretch of coast route will be finished next year and resurfaced with paving and oil and gravel.

Many Bridges Built
Three new bridges will be constructed during the year in Imperial valley and approximately a dozen more in other sections of Southern California.

Separation of a dangerous grade crossing at Del Mar has been constructed and two bad right angle turns eliminated. A new bridge at San Juan creek at Serra and two grade separations have been installed in addition to a mile of widening and resurfacing of the highway between El Cajon and La Mesa has been completed.

These are only a few high lights in the general constructive activities.

Boulevard Work Starts
However, as road building is reckoned by jobs and not dates, they tell only a part of the big story in Southern California. Work has already started or soon will commence on the Foothill boulevard east of Pasadena. This well known scenic drive will be widened and improved and many of the worst curves taken out. Plans are under way for work on the San Fernando road from Dayton avenue to the Los Angeles city limits to Newhall tunnel. A survey has been made for a new road around the Newhall tunnel to relieve the traffic congestion at this point.

Surfacing and paving of the coast highway from Santa Monica to Oxnard will be completed next year as much of this work already has been finished. The Midland trail between Little Lake and Olancho will be completed and surfaced.

L. A. Spends $8,000,000
In addition to state work, the counties and cities have been busy. It is expected that between $7,000,000 and $8,000,000 will be spent during 1927 on the streets of Los Angeles.

Beginning last July an additional cent tax was levied on gasoline which will go to the state for new construction work only, so that next year additional funds will be available for building the state highway system of more than 6600 miles.

WIDER STREETS DECLARED NEED

Declaring that the constantly increasing number of automobile accidents makes action imperative along lines that will stop such mishaps, Berle M. Morthland, who recently took over the franchise here for the Auburn automobile, asserted his belief that there is no secret to the method of solution. He believes the solution, while detailed and expensive, should be a comparatively simple matter.

"Streets must be widened," Morthland said, in introducing one of the factors he believes important in the reduction of traffic accidents. Continuing, he said: "Their size must be extended to include not only the present extremes of traffic, but plans for even heavier traffic that may develop 25 years hence. Such construction would effect economies for the future generations that will run into millions of dollars. "But wider thoroughfares will be of little avail unless the users of these highways utilize their rights on the roads. Consideration of the other fellow is a prime requisite, if traffic is to move smoothly and be free from accidents."

"To accomplish this end, it is necessary to educate the driving public. The place to begin is in the grade schools and the educational program should continue on down the line of ages to include the oldest of drivers. It should be a persistent educational program, to continue during the entire year, and year after year."

Export Increase Is Predicted By Motor Official

American motor car manufacturers will export from 25 to 35 per cent more cars to Europe in 1928 than in 1927, according to Leon R. German, vice president of the Peerless Motor Car corporation, following his return last week from a 60-day tour of the continent.

German reported economic conditions in Great Britain as good and getting better; the market for American manufacturers in France temporarily curtailed by the recently imposed high tariffs, and Germany holding the best economic situation of any continental country.

He found American motor cars gaining further footholds in England despite the campaign of British manufacturers to induce Englishmen to buy British cars.

TRAFFIC NOT HINDERED BY PAVING WORK

With the contractor completing one-half of the road at a time, the work of repaving approximately six miles of state highway between Galivan and a point north of El Toro, is not interfering seriously with the comfort of motorists traveling the route, according to the contractor. Concrete has been poured on virtually all of the distance on one side, and a portion of it has cured so that it is available to traffic.

The dirt road alongside of the traveled section is in fair condition and makes it possible to maintain fair speeds for the full distance.

Progress also is being made on construction of the overhead crossing of the Santa Fe at a point half a mile north of the present grade crossing at Galivan. A new pavement is to be put down on the opposite side of the Santa Fe tracks between the overhead bridge and junction of the present paving. It is possible it will be at least two months before this portion of the improvement work is completed.

On the coast boulevard, the section between Laguna Beach and Dana Point has been completely improved, and is in excellent condition. The crossing of San Juan creek near Serra has been improved to some extent so that driving over the route is not quite so objectionable as it was before the repair was made.

Construction of the subway under the Santa Fe tracks and bridge across San Juan creek probably will be completed within the next six weeks or two months, when the old route across the creek will be abandoned.

SAYS NEW CARS BUILT FOR STRAIN

Higher speed ranges, more powerful engines, faster pick-up, and ever faster deceleration, due to four wheel brakes, subject present day motor car bodies to strains much more destructive than those of a few years ago, according to F. E. Watts, chief engineer of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation.

Watts says bodies that were highly satisfactory even as recently as three years ago are wholly inadequate for today's modern automobiles.

"Today's body must contain greater durability, structural strength and rigidity than ever before," he said. "It must group with those features a finer appearance, enhanced comfort and increased spaciousness. The bodies of three years ago would fail completely to withstand the strains to which the greater performance advantage of the newest in motor cars would impose on them."

RILEY TELLS OF STUDEBAKER RUN

"In building a Studebaker dictator, a car listing for $1195, that will travel 24 continuous hours at an average speed of 61.795 miles per hour, Studebaker has delivered an automobile that will out perform and out live all competing cars and give care free, reliable service and economical performance," according to Harry D. Riley, local Studebaker-Erskine distributor, who today discussed the Studebaker dictator's new record of 1583 miles in 24 hours, made at the Atlantic City speedway October 10-11.

"When the dictator flashed across the finish line and the average speed was computed, the Studebaker engineers knew that the demand of the American motorist had been answered," said Riley. "We who sell Studebakers throughout the world know the stuff that has gone into the building of the dictator but it takes the actual performance to prove it. That is exactly what the 24-hour run did."

PONTIAC CAR DRIVEN 1500 MILES MONTHLY

When a motorist drives his car for a year and averages over 1000 miles of driving a month in that period of time he is spending a great deal of time at the wheel. But that is just what E. E. Frisby, 1012 Kilson drive, has done in the last year with his 1926 landau Pontiac sedan. In fact, Frisby has far exceeded that mark, having driven his Pontiac for an average of about 1500 miles a month, the speedometer now registering 19,000 miles, at the end of 13 months' driving.

Moreover, Frisby, according to H. W. Foster, salesman for the Oakland-Pontiac garage, has driven that great distance with the minimum of repair and adjustment cost and is more than satisfied with the performance of his machine.

Frisby, a county employee, uses his car a great deal in the course of his duties, according to Foster, and, with the exception of a trip to Yosemite National park, piled up most of his mileage on short drives in and about Santa Ana.

Describing his one long journey in the Pontiac—that to Yosemite—Frisby declared that he had averaged over 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline, despite the heavy pulling in some places. The car never heated up beyond a good driving temperature because of the engine's excellent high pressure oiling system, and its easy riding qualities made the trip, a vacation journey, one of pleasure and enjoyment from start to finish, according to Frisby.

FIRESTONE GROWTH IN 27 YEARS TOLD

Pointing out that the growth of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company has been remarkable and that the factories have kept pace with the demand for Firestone products, Harvey S. Firestone recounted to friends this week the story of the foundation of the company in 1900, when it started with Firestone, a bookkeeper and a stenographer as the full operating force.

In the 27 years of operation the company has increased its volume of business to where it is better than $140,000,000 a year. The company has tire factories at Akron, O., and Hamilton, O.; the world's largest rim plant at Akron, where is located a huge rubber reclaiming plant, cotton fabric mills at Fall River; rubber clothing and footwear factory at Hudson, Mass., and a large rubber buying organization at Singapore.

WHIPPET STAMINA SHOWN IN TEST

Running continuously for 48 hours, covering a total of 2148 miles at an average speed of 44 miles an hour, is another endurance and stamina record added a few days ago by a Whippet cologne roadster to the long list of outstanding accomplishments of this car, according to word received here. This new mark was set in an endurance demonstration staged at Pipestone, Minn., affidavits of official observers attesting the truth of the latest record performance.

The start of the endurance test was made at Pipestone after M. J. Meeker, an attorney, looked and sealed the Whippet's hood and also sealed the speedometer. At the conclusion of the test 48 hours later, Meeker again inspected the seals and declared them intact. Meeker also inspected the engine at the end of the journey and said there had been no additions or alterations.

Leavitt Company Takes New Line

In one of the most important automobile deals ever made in California, J. W. Leavitt and company has become distributor of Willys-Knight and Whippet motor cars for the entire state of California.

The Leavitt company has purchased outright all of the Willys-Overland factory branch properties in the state and has contracted to market $15,000,000 worth of Willys-Overland products each year.

The purchase includes factory branch buildings and equipment in Los Angeles and San Francisco, all motor car stocks, parts and service facilities. The company takes over the Willys-Overland personnel. However, the transaction does not disturb the Willys-Overland dealer organization in the state.

'OPEN HOUSE' WILL BE HELD BY O. A. HALEY

O. A. Haley, Inc., Nash dealer here, today was completing preparations for "open house" next week in keeping with the program of Nash dealers throughout the nation in promoting Nash "Christmas week." The display starts tomorrow and will continue until December 11.

Pointing out that there are 24 models in the three series of Nash cars, Haley said that a sufficient number of models would be on display to afford the prospective automobile buyer an insight into what the company has to offer and to offer the opportunity to select just the car in keeping with the "family purse."

"The new Nash models on display are distinguished by features and appointments which make them by far the greatest values ever offered by the Nash Motors company," Haley said. "Every car in the line is a seven-bearing crankshaft six; all have two-way four-wheel brakes, exceptional steering ease, fast pick-up and remarkable riding comfort contributed by new secret process alloy steel springs."

"The remarkable performance of these cars is matched by their beauty. Skillful selection of color combined with the finest quality upholstery and appointments gives each model the beauty and luxury of custom craftsmanship."

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Justice Arnold J. Wedemeyer, called "the marrying judge of Staten Island," who bitterly opposed run-away marriages, welcomed back his own eloping daughter and her new husband with a paternal blessing.

SEES BIG DEMAND FOR CARS ABROAD
C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motors company, who has returned from the Paris and London automobile shows, sees every indication of a growing market for American-made automobiles abroad. Improved economic conditions, particularly in England, France, Germany and in the Scandinavian countries, together with the development in Europe of good roads, are cited by Nash as reasons for a growing demand for the motor car. "In France, for example," said Nash, "there are 40,000,000 people and only about half a million automobiles, as contrasted with over 20,000,000 cars in America for a population of 110,000,000. This same ratio applies pretty generally throughout Europe and so the potential market there for automobiles is very large indeed."

Dr. Marsden Places His Order for Goodyear While in France
Hubert L. Brown, of the Citrus Tire and Truck company, Inc., 307 East First street, today claimed for his company the distinction of being the first tire organization in Santa Ana to receive an order for tires from Paris, France. The order came from Dr. A. A. Marsden while he was in the French capital, and carried instruction for the complete equipment of his Lincoln sedan with Goodyear tires, in preparation for the return of Dr. Marsden and wife.

Dr. Marsden told Brown the order for Goodyear equipment was the result of his observation before leaving in June for Berlin that the new type tread contained 40 per cent more rubber than the old type and that the new tires were delivering 20 per cent more mileage than the old.

Redlands Road Will Be Closed For Four Months
Reconstruction work on the Redlands-Baumont road is now well under way, according to a late report received from the touring department of the National Automobile club. The work consists of steam shovel excavation, removal of old asphalt macadam and the installation of drainage culverts. Actual laying of new pavement will not be started for a few weeks and it will be necessary for this road, or portions thereof, to remain closed for approximately four months. Motorists traveling through this section have their choice of going via Riverside and the Moreno grade or via Redlands, which requires detouring via Sand Canyon and the Yucaipa concrete road. A good dirt road about two miles in length connects the Yucaipa road with the state highway at the San Bernardino-Riverside county line. The distance via the detour is slightly over a mile longer than via the closed highway. This detour is considered an excellent one and is well signed.

APPLICATIONS FOR CAR PLATES FLOOD OFFICE
A veritable flood of applications for 1928 motor vehicle license plates started pouring in by mail to the Sacramento office of the division of motor vehicles yesterday from every part of California. Division officials estimated that applications will number more than one million by December 15, when the counters will be thrown open. The response has been particularly good from the commercial houses and firms using large numbers of motor vehicles. Many of these firms have submitted their applications in a block, thus giving the division the opportunity of clearing them up before the big rush starts. Chief Clerk Lon W. Butler said at Sacramento that mail applications would be filled as rapidly as possible and plates and certificates rushed to their owners. "Forwarding the application by mail is the simplest and easiest way to get 1928 plates," said Butler. "It relieves the motorist of standing in line for a long period and loss of time while waiting." Motorists should avoid sending currency or silver in making applications. Certified checks or postal money orders should be sent, the office says. The certificate of registration, displayed in the car, should accompany the fee. Motorists should be certain that there has been no change of address since the certificate was issued. Changes of address should be printed on the face of the certificate in legible letters. The fee is $3 for passenger cars and the same weight schedules for commercial vehicles will prevail as were used last year. "Buy Newcom's Big N Mash"—(Adv.)

TRIAL OF 'HOT MAMA' COMPANY IS ADJOURNED

BY DAN CAMPBELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—While the bluish of embarrassing moments gradually receded from the countenance of 12 male jurors, most of them grandfathers, the trial of 27 chorines of the "Hot Mama" company, smoldered in adjournment here today over the week end.

When recess was taken at the close of yesterday's performance, the jury had been entertained by a minister, who did "imitations," a policeman, who actually blushed during the raid on the Folies theater, and a newspaperman, who gave a graphic account which "exposed" the "hot mamas" in no uncertain terms.

Record Crowd Expected
Bits of filmy material, which are asserted to have been the costumes of the chorus, charged with giving a few and obscene performance, and pictures, asserted to have been displayed in the theater lobby, are the burning magnet which are expected to draw another record crowd Monday when the case is resumed.

The Rev. "Fighting Bob" Shuler's brother, divine, Dr. Gustave Bregleh, who accompanied the latter to a performance of the "Hot Mama" show, is expected to take the stand Monday. Whether he will fall in line with the Rev. Shuler, who upst the dignity of the courtroom with an "imitation" of a "licentious smile," the prosecution refused to reveal.

The climax of the courtroom performance is not expected to be reached before Wednesday, when the chorines will be called to the stand to explain why they consider their dancing "art" and not a vulgar display, as the Rev. Shuler and police branded the show. Whether an actual demonstration of their "art" will be presented for the jury could not be learned.

The court also is to rule Monday on the question of whether pictures, displayed in the lobby of the theater and presented by the prosecution, may be introduced as evidence. The defense claims the pictures and nothing to do with the performance and in part the prosecution agrees with this contention.

The girls and principals of the "Hot Mama" company were arrested by a vice squad after the Rev. Shuler and others had complained to police that the performance was the world's worst show.

DYNAMITE STOLEN NEAR FULLERTON

Theft of 20 sticks of dynamite from the Brea canyon powder magazine of the Dean Hardware company, Fullerton, led police to fear that boys were planning a repetition of the huge blast set off on a hill north of Fullerton last New Year's eve.

While the blast of a year ago did no actual damage, it awakened Fullerton residents, who are once more uneasy in expectation of the expected demonstration.

The theft was discovered when an employee of the hardware company went to the canyon storehouse.

ONLY RICH NATIONS ABLE TO AFFORD DEMOCRACIES-BICKEL

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—Democracies are getting to be such a luxury that only the more prosperous nations can afford them.

This is the impression of Karl A. Bickel, president of the United Press, who is here with Mrs. Bickel at the end of a trip around the world.

"Ten years after the war that was fought to make the world safe for democracy, the major portion of the civilized world is ruled by dictators," Bickel said.

"China is contributing the latest dictator, Chang Tso Lin, ruler of the northern half, whom many believe will make himself emperor."

List Of Dictators

"Only Stalin rules over a larger area, but there are Mussolini, Pilsudski, Rivera and a lot of smaller two-fisted dictators to whom the world is giving jobs in gross lots."

"The poorer countries can't afford the luxury of democracy. If Russia blew away what we did in our airplane scandal it would wreck the government."

"Only rich nations like ours and England can afford the mistakes that are made by democracies."

Bickel found north and south China in a stalemate, with the warlord Chang giving his half of the land a secure, ruthless government.

Students Executed

During the two weeks Bickel was in Peking more than a score of students, including a girl, and others suspected of pro-Russian or radical sympathy were executed.

Bickel passed off the spectre of a Pan-Asiatic League of Nations as a "pink-tinted dream of Chinese, Japanese and Russian idealists."

He found, instead, a tendency toward a partnership between Russia and Japan, with Japan assuming an economic "Monroe Doctrine" over Manchuria and outer Mongolia, much like that of the United States over Central America.

In this combination Russia would furnish the raw material and Japan the manufacturing genius.

Bickel predicted increased banking activities on the part of the United States across the Pacific, pointing to the recent Lamont loan to the Japanese South Manchurian railroad.

U. S. No Competitor

He said, however, that the United States cannot successfully compete with the Japanese in Manchuria.

Bickel showed concern over the radio and cable transmission system across the Pacific.

The proposal of the Radio Corporation of America to raise the rate to Manila from six to nine cents a word and eliminate naval radio auxiliary would, he said, make a bad situation worse.

"The rate should be reduced to five cents," he said. "No American dependency should have a communication rate of more than five cents a word."

"The press rate of 17 cents to Tokyo should be 10 cents. With a rate of 23 cents to Shanghai, the Chinese are not getting our news."

"The result is that public opinion in China is oriented to Japan, France, England, Russia and Germany, but not to the United States."

"The Chinese wall that separates China and our country should be broken down by cheaper press rates. Anything that can be done to encourage the western Union or Postal to enter the Pacific basin should be done."

Verdict of the Jury
The verdict of the jury at an inquest was that Miss Knudson came to her death as result of injuries sustained "through the reckless driving of Mrs. Phillips and Schultz, the owner of the car."

The district attorney's office immediately took under consideration the possibility of manslaughter complaints against the couple, it was announced.

Action Started
Clifford A. Thompson and Clifford C. Rea, of Long Beach started action in the Superior court today for the recovery of $3761 from George Hart and Frank Collins, alleging that the defendants had failed to pay for goods sold to them at Huntington Beach on an open book account.

Granted Decree
Frank J. Kablah has been given an interlocutory decree of divorce from Margaret Kablah on grounds of desertion. A property settlement has been made between the two, but was not approved by the court, which nevertheless granted the decree.

Suit Started
That the defendants did fraudulently conspire together to defeat the claims of the creditors of Claude T. Davis, alleged to be bankrupt, was declared in a complaint filed today against Davis and Mrs. Clara Davis. Carey Williams, the plaintiff stated that Davis had deeded a piece of property to his wife without consideration, and that previously he had mortgaged it to Lucinda Thompson without consideration for the purpose of defrauding his creditors. The plaintiff asks that the deed be set aside and that the lands be made subject to a lien of her claim. She is trustee of the Davis estate.

Separate Maintenance
Emma Henning today filed a suit for separate maintenance against Otto Henning, alleging that he had deserted her. She asks $75 a month for the support of herself and her child. They were married in 1926 and separated after slightly over a month.

Sues On Note
Suing on a promissory note, the First National bank today brought Superior court action against D. R. Miller, V. W. Russell, and J. W. Bird for the recovery of $2241.07, the remainder alleged to be due on a $5000 note.

Millions Of Wasps Are Disinfected
SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 3.—The state of California is now engaged in the rather ticklish task of disinfecting several million wasps.

These insects are known as the "blastophaga" and they carry the pollen which fertilizes the Callymna figs, representing 25 per cent of the state's million dollar fig crop.

Internal rot has infected most of the Callymna. It is carried by the wasps on their pollen-laden limbs when they travel from tree to tree.

So while the wasps are sound asleep for the winter the state is dry-cleaning their homes. It is disinfecting every tree, and thus every wasp—an experiment unique in the annals of horticulture. When the wasps emerge they will find their homes thoroughly cleaned, renovated, and free from infection.

ESTRANGEMENT IS DENIED BY MRS. J. WARD

Mrs. Beil Ward, 22, 402 Cypress avenue, wife of John Ward, 20, tackle on the University of Southern California football squad, asserted today that her father-in-law, Gus Ward, of Garden Grove, had tried to "buy her off" before he started action to annul their marriage Thursday.

Furthermore, she declared that she and young Ward are not estranged, and that the statement in the complaint to the effect that they are not living together is false.

"John comes to Santa Ana on week ends and we are together then, as all our friends know," she said.

The failure of the father's asserted attempts to "buy her off" were said by Mrs. Ward to be one reason why the court proceedings had been started.

"I am living in Santa Ana because I am employed here," she said. "I would be more expensive to live in Los Angeles, and John has to keep regular hours as well as eat at the training table. I don't like Los Angeles anyway."

"John will be here tonight after the football game with the University of Washington team and we have a bridge party planned."

She declared that she and her husband would resist the annulment proceedings. She explained that John is under 21 and that they cannot prevent the success of the action on that ground.

"But he will be 21 next March and it will be an easy matter to get married again," she said.

Mrs. Ward was at a loss to explain the initiation of the attempt to separate her and the young athlete and stated that his father had accompanied him to Chicago when the Notre Dame game was played. She does not believe the elder man told her husband that he was planning to go to court in the matter.

Two weeks ago, however, she said that her father-in-law had indicated his intention of separating the young couple, although he was hesitating because she had not shown any animosity toward him or her mother-in-law.

She claimed that the father has been worried over the attitude of his son for some time and that he had questioned the boy in regard to what seemed to be worrying him. She stated that the athlete had denied that there was anything wrong between him and his wife.

"He won't talk about it," Mrs. Ward claims her father-in-law told her.

LA HABRA
LA HABRA, Dec. 3.—Some of the new homes within the city limits nearing completion are the $3800 stucco duplex belonging to Ray Swift, of Pomona; the $2900 frame house being built for Elmer McClure, of Torrance, and a $2500 stucco on First street for C. C. Wilbanks, of Montebello. C. H. Bills and C. H. Pearcey have been issued permits for improvements on their property on Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Oliver have received word of the serious illness of their daughter, Mrs. Verdie Patterson, in Colorado. The latter is well known here by her frequent visits. Mrs. Oliver is a sister of Mrs. J. G. Colley, whose son was accidentally shot last week by his chum.

McDonald To Be Marshal In Rose Tourney Parade
PASADENA, Dec. 3.—John McDonald, Pasadena pioneer and veteran of the Civil war, will serve as grand marshal of the Tournament of Roses parade here January 2, it was announced late yesterday by tournament officials.

Maj. N. J. Shupe, member of the city board of directors, who last year was in charge of the formation of the parade, again will serve in that capacity.

C. Hal Reynolds, chairman of the parade committee, announced that 16 cities already had entered floats in the parade, including San Jose and San Francisco, while Les Henry, chairman of the football committee, predicted that the Stanford-Pittsburgh game in the Rose bowl would be a sell-out.

MOTHER GIVES UP HER CHILD FOR ADOPTION
The drama of adoption, quietly enacted, but tense with the suppressed emotion of a mother who was giving up her claim to a baby which she will not see again, and which she did not see today, moved quickly to a conclusion in the superior court this morning.

A Mexican father and mother, who have cared for the infant since it was 10 days old, sat inside the rail while they were given legal custody of the child, now almost a year old. They were told the baby was theirs by Charles Carrillo, court interpreter, and went their way.

From the adjacent chambers the mother, dressed in black, entered and stood before the court. She agreed to relinquish her claim to the child.

"I have only one desire," she told Carrillo in Spanish. "I would like to see the baby for a few minutes." Carrillo reported her wish to the court. It was then that she learned that the new parents had left the building.

And it is one of the conditions of the adoption proceedings that the best interests of the baby will be served if the names of the new parents are not known to the girl who has given up her right to be called a mother.

DRIVERS BLAMED FOR CRASH DEATH
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—Responsibility for the death of Miss Ethel Knudson, 20, killed yesterday by an automobile, was placed directly on John Schultz, 33, a city employee, and Mrs. Hope Phillips, San Francisco, by a coroner's jury today.

The verdict of the jury at an inquest was that Miss Knudson came to her death as result of injuries sustained "through the reckless driving of Mrs. Phillips and Schultz, the owner of the car."

The district attorney's office immediately took under consideration the possibility of manslaughter complaints against the couple, it was announced.

DEVELOPMENT OF BOULDER DAM URGED
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 3.—The Boulder canyon dam on the Colorado river could be built by the government, and the government should develop the electric power of the project and distribute it, as it is the only agency which can be trusted with the proper allocation of the power crop, is the opinion of Congressman Richard J. Welch, of San Francisco, who has just returned from a visit to the project site.

Declaring that he was more firmly convinced than before that it is the duty of the government to begin construction of the dam immediately, the congressman said: "The danger resulting to 65,000 people in the Imperial valley bowl from this great stream which flows along the edge of the bowl is so plain to the eye of any visitor there that it makes one shiver."

"Flood control is the foremost consideration in connection with the project."

Congressman Welch spent a week on the survey. After visiting the dam site near Las Vegas, Nev., he went into the Imperial valley by way of Los Angeles.

"While I have always been in favor of this project, the trip convinced me of the pressing need for beginning the work, because of the danger in which the people of Imperial valley live."

MERRY BATTLE FOR SENATE SEAT SEEN
OLYMPIA, Wash., Dec. 3.—Washington state is looking forward to a merry political battle next year, when Senator C. C. Dill, Democrat, asks this normally Republican state to return him to the United States senate.

Interest in the fight was increased recently by the announcement of Miles Poindexter, former senator, that he intends to resign his position as ambassador to Peru and to seek the Republican nomination in the hope of regaining the senate seat which he filled for many years.

Both Dill and Poindexter class Spokane as their home, thus, if both win in the primaries, the battle will be an eastern Washington affair. Dill defeated Poindexter in 1922.

Dill is likely to have the Democratic nomination without opposition but Poindexter will face a real fight, as some candidate is bound to come out of western Washington to represent the faction of the Republican party which is opposed to Governor Roland H. Hartley.

As yet Poindexter is the only Republican who has definitely declared his candidacy.

College Paper Urges Smoking Room For Girls
GALESBURG, Ill., Dec. 3.—Faculty comment has been withering on the editorial in "Swisher," Knox college monthly magazine, advocating a smoking room for co-eds.

The article said Knox college, as a liberal institution, "would do well to allow co-eds to smoke."

"At present the co-eds must sneak their cigarettes," the article continued, "and since it is no longer a secret that they smoke, would it not be much more honorable and more convenient if they were allowed to enjoy their cigarettes without sneaking around the corner out of vision of the faculty?"

McDonald To Be Marshal In Rose Tourney Parade

PASADENA, Dec. 3.—John McDonald, Pasadena pioneer and veteran of the Civil war, will serve as grand marshal of the Tournament of Roses parade here January 2, it was announced late yesterday by tournament officials.

Maj. N. J. Shupe, member of the city board of directors, who last year was in charge of the formation of the parade, again will serve in that capacity.

C. Hal Reynolds, chairman of the parade committee, announced that 16 cities already had entered floats in the parade, including San Jose and San Francisco, while Les Henry, chairman of the football committee, predicted that the Stanford-Pittsburgh game in the Rose bowl would be a sell-out.

MOTHER GIVES UP HER CHILD FOR ADOPTION

The drama of adoption, quietly enacted, but tense with the suppressed emotion of a mother who was giving up her claim to a baby which she will not see again, and which she did not see today, moved quickly to a conclusion in the superior court this morning.

A Mexican father and mother, who have cared for the infant since it was 10 days old, sat inside the rail while they were given legal custody of the child, now almost a year old. They were told the baby was theirs by Charles Carrillo, court interpreter, and went their way.

From the adjacent chambers the mother, dressed in black, entered and stood before the court. She agreed to relinquish her claim to the child.

"I have only one desire," she told Carrillo in Spanish. "I would like to see the baby for a few minutes." Carrillo reported her wish to the court. It was then that she learned that the new parents had left the building.

And it is one of the conditions of the adoption proceedings that the best interests of the baby will be served if the names of the new parents are not known to the girl who has given up her right to be called a mother.

DIVORCES ARE GRANTED TO 8 IN SINGLE DAY

Setting what is believed to be a record, at least for recent months, eight spouses secured interlocutory divorce decrees yesterday in the superior court and the documents were filed today in the office of county clerk, J. M. Backs.

One woman received her maiden name as a result of the court decisions. But two men were arrayed on the plaintiffs' side in the proceedings.

Dora Barto was given her former name of Domries when she was awarded legal separation from Ludwig Barto. She claimed that her husband deserted her. They were married in April, 1925, and the separation occurred in November, 1926.

Desertion is alleged as the ground for divorce action by both men. Owen H. South secured a decree from Iva E. L. South on this basis. They were married in 1908 and separated in 1925.

On the same charge, William E. McMin was granted separation from Georgia McMin, also known as Miss Ruth Arnold. They had been married eight years when the separation occurred, in 1926.

Nellie D. Scott asserted that her husband, Gus Scott, had not spoken to her for the past year except to curse at her. They had been married 37 years when the court action began. She was given custody of their one child.

Mattie C. Long has secured a decree from Wilmet J. Long after nine years of married life. Failure to provide for her and their child is alleged as the grounds for the action.

Jessie U. Hester gained a divorce from William B. Hester, and Lela E. Dillon was granted a decree from Raymond A. Dillon, both actions being based on desertion charges. The Hesters had been married five years and the Dillons four, at the time of separation.

ELEVATOR GIRL BECOMES LAWYER

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 3.—Four years ago a pretty young widow, nearly destitute and with two children to support, obtained a job as an elevator girl and, in spite of the "downs" that naturally come to an elevator chauffeur, she has been going up ever since. She is Mrs. Edith Cover, of St. Louis.

Today the same young woman is still unmarried, attractive still, and a full-fledged attorney of the law of Iowa. She recently passed the state bar examination at Des Moines with 21 others—all of whom had studied three years in universities. Eleven more, all men and university graduates, failed to pass the examination.

Deprived of her parents by death when she was very young, Mrs. Cover was reared in the home of her grandparents, stern conservative folk, who believed that a woman's place was in no place other than her home. At her home in Shawnee, Okla., she studied the art of homemaking and attended a convent school. At fifteen she was married and for nine years cared for the home as her grandparents trained her to.

At 16 years, she was already a mother, giving birth to a daughter, Eloise. Two years later a son arrived.

When her daughter was 8 and her son 6 years old, Mrs. Cover found herself a widow, without funds and without training to earn a livelihood for herself and the two children—two babes in the wood for whom she had to impregnate a whole flock of robins.

Finally, she got a position as an elevator girl in the Iowa building here, and there she worked for more than a year. But she was not satisfied for long with her position. It seemed that the "Up, please—Going up," that she continually called to the patrons of her car had an effect on her desire to go up and keep on going up in the world.

In a short time she succumbed to her "going up" impulse, and in spite of the difficulty of supporting herself and her children on the wages of an elevator girl Mrs. Cover attended a commercial night school for six months. At the end of that time she was a fully qualified stenographer, but she continued her work at the elevator, always with her eye open for a position in the office of one of the legal firms there. She yearned to be in a law office.

Eventually an opening was found in the offices of Griffin, Griffin & Griffin of this city, and Edith Cover, whose grandparents saw her married at 15, took the final definite step into that world of business where she was never expected to go. In a short time she left the first firm to become private secretary to Representative L. B. Forsling, into whose practice she has now come as a partner.

And so, the shingle of Attorney Edith V. Cover, four years ago an elevator girl, hangs outside the of-

Governor Won't Talk At Depot

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 3.—Governor Young draws the line at rushing down to special trains to deliver brief addresses to delegates detained on railroad platforms, but any time delegations wish to stop here he will gladly receive them in his office.

This policy has just been formulated by the chief executive in declining to address a special train of delegates to the annual convention of the National Association of Practical Refrigerating Engineers in San Francisco from Nov. 29 to December 2. The governor was asked to talk but politely declined with the explanation that an address made to a group hastily detained and standing on a platform would not be satisfactory.

The governor has suggested that the party leave the train here for half an hour, tour the city and then call at his office to be welcomed to the state. This the delegates have agreed to do.

Two years ago she became secretary and Edith V. Cover, lawyer, is still marveling over the fortune that enabled her to pass the Iowa state bar examinations when 11 men, all university trained, failed to show the learning that two years of individual effort gave to her.

Tailor's Sign Leads To Trouble

BERKELEY, Dec. 3.—That advertising pays is axiomatic, but here's one case where the advertiser pays.

For approximately a year, William Ross, a tailor, had hanging over his establishment, a huge sign in flaring letters which read: "Fifty dollars reward to any person who can find a tailor in business on Telegraph avenue, between Channing way and Durant street, except William Ross."

Came an ill wind. Another tailor opened a shop in the next block. The news spread—so rapidly in fact that before Ross even became aware of the new shop, an immense crowd entered his shop and demanded payment. Ross looked the crowd over, made a few mental calculations, and then called all bets off.

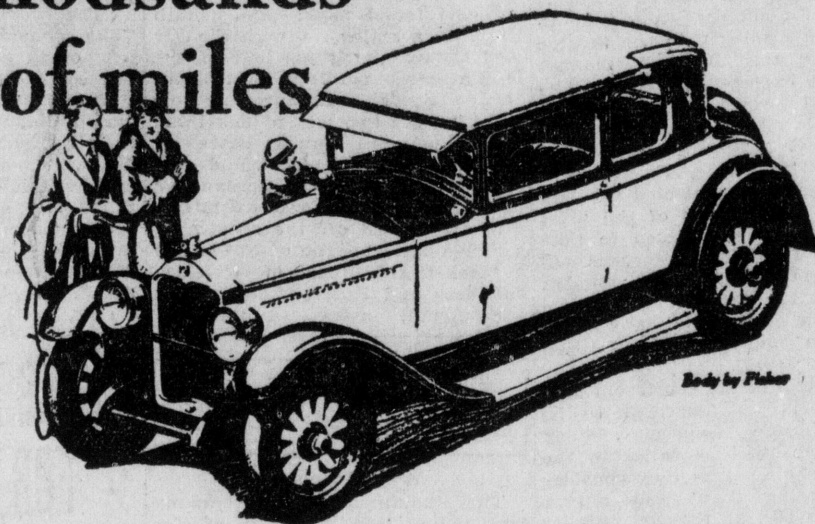

Three students of the U. of C. were not so easily mollified. They entered suits in the small claims court against him to collect the money.

But the worst was yet to come. Ross learned. He has been cited to appear before Deputy District Attorney Harry Styles to show cause why he should not be prosecuted under the state law prohibiting false advertising. Conviction under this statute, Ross learned, consists of a misdemeanor punishable by $500 fine, six months in jail or both.

AGED SISTER GETS ACTRESS' ESTATE

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—An aged and poor sister of Clara Morris—famous emotional actress of the '80s and '90s—whom the tragedienne never saw since their parents, a serving maid and a cabman parted when the children were babies, is now sole heir to the actress' $15,000 estate.

Had it not been, however, for an apparently trivial entry in a diary of Clara Morris, speaking of a lost sister, Mrs. Eliza Burtis, 78 years old, crippled with rheumatism and threatened with blindness, might have lived out her life in her tenement in the Hell's Kitchen district, suffering privations of poverty alleviated only by $30 a month pension paid for her dead husband's Civil war service.

Surrogate Slater visited Mrs. Burtis and took her testimony, considered documentary evidence and at the end of the hearing, by the light which came through a begrimed window half above and half below ground, signed an order declaring her the sister of Clara Morris and sole legatee.

Identification of Mrs. Burtis, who said she had an intuition she and the stage star were sisters was made through researches of George Macadam, Clara Morris' biographer. His search, characterized by the most persistent and ingenious he had ever heard of, led him from a diary entry to an unclaimed bank account at Buffalo, cemetery and pension records, old city directories, newspaper files, policemen, expressmen and a janitress.

When Mrs. Burtis was asked why she had not visited her sister and mother if she had suspected the relationship, she replied: "When I heard Clara was growing blind and was sick, I yearned to see her but I never did. I could not prove that I was her sister. I did not know that I was. I could not tell how I would be received."

The father of Clara Morris was a blacksmith turned cab-driver, her mother was a cook and servant. Clara was born in Toronto, Ont., March 17, 1848. As a baby she was brought to Buffalo, where Eliza was born. Then, the tracing of the family history indicates, the father deserted the family when Clara was 3 years old and Eliza 9 months. Eliza was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Burt, in whose care her mother left her. In Cleveland, in 1862, the mother was engaged as a nurse to a family named Bosworth who took her daughter Clara to their hearts. It was at Cleveland that Clara made her stage debut. Clara Morris, died in November, died. Burt married again and his second wife and his child failed to live in harmony. When Burt died, the girl left the household and married George A. Burtis in New York. Burtis served in the Civil war with the Fifth New York volunteers and the Duryea Zouaves. He died in 1898. In 1907 a pension was granted his widow.

FRANK SMITH READY FOR SENATE BATTLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—U. S. Senator-elect Frank L. Smith, Republican, has left for Washington to lead his fight to be allowed to take his seat in the senate.

A bitter fight to prevent the seating of Smith will be made on the ground that he disqualified himself for office by accepting campaign contributions from public utilities officials while he was head of the state utilities commission.

C. J. Doyle, Smith's personal attorney, will meet the senator-elect in Washington to assist in the fight. Aiding them will be a committee appointed by the state legislature for that purpose.

Isolation Rapped By College Head

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 3.—"Whatever our desires may be as a nation, we cannot be internationalists in business and remain isolationists in diplomacy and politics," Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute Technology, said in giving his opinions on the French tariff controversy.

Referring to the present discussions now taking place between France and the United States in regard to the possibility of drafting commercial treaties that would be satisfactory to both nations, President Baker emphasized the importance of "a closer study of the industrial relations between foreign countries and the United States."

"France," he pointed out, "is likely to insist upon the lowering of our tariff on her goods. The present incident, however, is not so important in itself as it is an indication of what we may expect from other countries. France is probably sending up merely a trial balloon to test American sentiment. Certainly all of the nations of Europe are watching the present discussions with eager attention and are doubtless lending their moral support and encouragement to France."

Americans, he said, hardly realize the extent to which the industrialization of the greater part of Europe has gone.

BOY SCOUTS TO HELP POOR ON CHRISTMAS DAY

Boy Scouts of the county will co-operate with other organizations in preparing for the distribution of good cheer to homes of the poor in the county. It was announced here today by R. E. Dye, scout executive.

The Scouts will receive at their respective headquarters in the various communities all kinds of old toys in good and bad repair and will redistribute them to organizations which organize Christmas baskets for distribution. Scouts will call for the broken toys if informed of their availability.

Dye pointed out that in case of the receipt of broken playthings, Boy Scouts will place them in the best possible condition by making repairs as far as it is possible to "rejuvenate" the discarded playthings.

"Through this activity the Boy Scouts will be able to supply toys to unfortunate families who would not be able to enjoy the Christmas spirit," Dye said. He added that Scout mothers have volunteered to co-operate by dressing dolls.

At a recent meeting of the Scoutmasters of the county, the county council presented each with a copy of the new handbook. The book has 600 pages containing full information on all things needed to carry out Scout work, so far as concerns tenderfoot, second class and first class requirements. In presenting the book it was pointed out that it marks the first general revision the Scout handbook has had in 17 years. The old book had a circulation of more than 3,000,000 copies, of which number more than 4000 have been in use in Orange county in the past seven years.

The national office ordered 300,000 copies of the new book and has found this insufficient to meet the demands.

Pupils Oppose Teacher's System

SALEM, Ore., Dec. 3.—That the new principal wears skirts to her ankles and unbobbed hair, and that her teaching methods are not modern, were some of the reasons why all but seven of the 65 high school students at Newberg went on strike. State Superintendent of Schools C. A. Howard received this information from J. M. Graham, who said he represented the parents and students. Mrs. T. E. Halleck, the principal, recently was appointed to the position. Howard has not decided what to do.

DISCOVERING "CAL" AIN'T SAID NOthin' AND AIN'T GOING TO SAY NOthin' MORE

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Confidential stenographic report of the first meeting of the Luger-Lucubators, a new society of wistful Republican presidential candidates who adopted as their motto, "Why Don't He Speak Up?" and as their official anthem the ditty entitled, "Is They Meat on That Bone or Is They Not?"

"Well, he ain't said nothin'."

"Nope, and maybe he ain't goin' to."

"Huh!"

"All depends on what you feelers 'an' by somethin'." When some people says just a little bit they sometimes means a whole lot.

"Yeh, they's somethin' in that."

"Trouble is, how does anybody know what he means?"

"Well, they don't exactly know, maybe."

"But, just the same, he has said somethin' and that's better 'an sayin' nothin'."

"Sure, he ain't said he will and he ain't said he won't."

"When a feller's goin' to do somethin' he generally says it, don't he?"

"Course he does, unless he's scared to."

"Yeah, maybe, he's scared."

"If he wasn't scared he'd say it, wouldn't he?"

That Word Again

"Well, nobody knew what he meant, when he said choose, did they?"

"How can you tell what he meant?"

"If nobody knows what he meant, then nobody knows whether he meant he will or he won't."

"It's just as likely he will as he won't."

"I don't care what he meant about choose. I want to know what he meant when he said he didn't choose to run."

"Yeah, what did he mean by run?"

"Maybe a guy can run sometimes when he just sits still."

"Sure, a guy might mean he didn't choose to run away from it, either."

"But he said he didn't choose to run for it."

"Nor away from it, either."

"If he was goin' to take it why didn't he just sit still and not say anything at all?"

"He never says nothin' about nothin' else, why should he say anything about it if he wanted it?"

Keepin' Still

"If he could get it by keepin' still, he wouldn't say anything about it if he wanted it."

"Lotta people thinks he don't want it and lotta people thinks he does."

"Why ain't he ever said what he meant?"

"Some thinks he told Fess what he meant."

"Yeah, he told Fess to stop talkin' too much."

"But he didn't tell him he wouldn't take it."

"If he wanted it then why did he tell Fess to stop talkin' so much?"

"You'd think he'd like it the louder Fess talked."

"Maybe he told old Stearns somethin'."

"Nope, he never told old Stearns nothin'." They don't ever tell each other nothin'.

"He ain't ever told nobody nothin' about whether he will or he won't."

She Ain't Tellin'

"Maybe he told his wife somethin'."

"She ain't tellin' my wife what he meant."

"Nor mine."

"She told mine he'd decide it himself."

"Maybe he talks in his sleep."

"Well, how you goin' to find out what he says?"

"He told 'em he didn't want no more of them petitions."

"Yes, sir, why shouldn't he want them petitions? They don't cost nothin'."

"It don't cost nothin' to say he won't take it, neither."

"Yeah, if he didn't want it he could say so."

"Nobody's goin' to know if he wants it until he says somethin'."

"He's said somethin' but he don't mean nothin'."

"Well, then he ain't said nothin'."

"Nope and maybe he ain't goin' to."

11 CADILLACS, TWO LASALLES SOLD IN MONTH

Eleven new Cadillacs and two LaSalle motor cars found new homes in Orange county during the month of November, Mark Lacy, sales manager for Otto Haan's Cadillac garage, revealed today in making announcement of new owners.

The month's business, according to Lacy, included sales to several previous owners of Cadillacs, who were so impressed with the new automotive creation recently turned out by General Motors that they gave up machines that had been in use for but brief periods for the privilege of operating new cars.

LaSalle delivered during November were to E. L. Miller, Anaheim, and Catherine Williams, San Juan Capistrano. Miller purchased a coupe and Miss Williams a five-passenger sedan.

Cadillac deliveries during the month were as follows:

$8000 SAVED WHEN LETTER LINE CHANGED

A change in the position of one line on certificates of motor vehicles registration and ownership to a point three-eighths of an inch higher by officials of the division of motor vehicles today resulted in an estimated saving of $8000.

The change was made to comply with postal regulations, which require that openings in envelopes to display addresses placed on enclosed matter must be at least three-eighths of an inch from the bottom and not less than an inch and three-eighths from the top.

Because of this regulation it had previously been the custom to enclose certificates for mailing in envelopes without openings and to type the address on the outside. To obviate the necessity of typing the address, Lon W. Butler, chief clerk of the division, rearranged the certificates so that the line for the name of the legal owner appears three-eighths of an inch higher.

The use of envelopes with glass-ene covered envelopes will permit the division to enclose the certificates as well as notices to legal owners and mail them out without additional typing.

As the change will affect nearly 2,000,000 pieces of mail, the saving in typing is estimated at $8000.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—Trial of Joe Dundee, welterweight champion; Max Waxman, his manager, and Dick Donald, promoter of the Dundee-Ace Hudkins fight which failed to "sell" on charges of false advertising in connection with the battle has been continued until February 3.

SPORTSMATTER

BY FRANK GETTY
UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Now that the 1927 gridiron season is ended, let us look ahead for a moment to next fall, before bidding football "adieu."

In the east, some high class freshman material was apparent and undoubtedly varsity coaches of good quality because prep school coaching has improved, just as college coaching generally has improved, as a result of increased interest in football and a corresponding increase in gate receipts.

The two best teams in the east this fall were Yale and Princeton. Yale will be hard put to keep its place at the top of the heap in 1928. In the first place, if "Tad" Jones persists in his intention to resign, a new head coach must step in and take charge at New Haven. In the next, Yale loses such stars as Captain Bill Webster, Al Foote, Bruce Caldwell, Bill Hammersley, Cox, the regular fullback, and two of the best ends who ever faked a line at Yale, Stew Scott and Dwight Fishwick. "Red" Quanner also will graduate, and a number of others who played on the varsity this fall are seniors.

As a nucleus for a 1928 eleven, Yale will have Charlesworth, Eddy and Greene in the line and Hoben, Decker and Garvey in the backfield. Princeton, on the contrary, suffers little through next spring's sheepskins. Bill Roper developed a great team this fall, and will have it intact for next season, save for his guards and one end. Captain Mosser, right end, graduates, but Stinson, who alternated at left end with Lawlor, was just about as good a wing man.

Joe Caldwell, best of Princeton guards, who was cut during the later part of the season, will be back next fall, so Roper has little to worry about. Wittmer, Baruch, Miles, Norman and 26 other varsity players will be available in 1928.

The Tiger's prospects are bright.

Kaute Rockne, out at Notre Dame, loses ten first-string men through graduation. But Kaute long since has developed a system whereby his second team of this year is next fall's first string line-up, and so on. There need be no tears shed over Rockne's losses.

Notre Dame is to have a new stadium, costing millions. Presumably Kaute will give the school another million dollar team.

It will be interesting to see which of this fall's stars succeed to the lure of G. C. Pyle's dollars and join the ranks of professional football players.

The promoters must keep their hands off until after graduation. It is no secret that they have their eyes on Bruce Caldwell and others, and are waiting with ill-concealed impatience for Commencement Day, next June.

HUDKINS WILL GO EAST AFTER DUNDEE MATCH

COUNTRY CLUB WOMEN DEFEAT PALOS VERDES

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—A yellow-haired youth who arrived here three years ago from the cornfields of Nebraska to seek success with his fists in the prize ring soon will turn his fighting ac eastward to "camp on the rail" of a world's champion.

The youth is "Wildcat" Ace Hudkins and the object of his trek is Joe Dundee of Baltimore, welterweight king, with whom Ace has a chance to draw on a trip to New York City with the big idea of forcing Joe Dundee to fight for the championship, Clyde declared. "We first will stop in Detroit to tackle some worthy ghter—perhaps Jack Zivic.

Dundee Under Suspension

"Dundee is now under suspension in California and New York is his manager, Max Waxman, a result of the Los Angeles walkout" that lost Ace his chance to fight Dundee in the north. Dundee is not worth dime to anyone until he fights it wildcat and we intend to stay it him until he does.

"Ace, Art and I believe the champion does not want to risk is title by entering the ring with tough fighter like Ace and that's the reason we are going east. We're a showdown."

Hudkins' last battle was in Los Angeles November 28 when he forced a four-round knockout over German Auerbach of Salt Lake. He fought slightly under the 17-pound, welterweight demand and overwhelmed Auerbach with a characteristic wild, slugging attack.

TROJAN, HUSKY GRIDDERS CLASH

SCHOMMER ASSAILS 'GUTLESS WONDERS' WHO BLAME HONEST OFFICIALS FOR LOSING GAME

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Bitterly assailing coaches who criticize "an honest official decision," John C. Schommer last night defended his touchback decision in the recent Notre Dame-Southern California football game here. Schommer was at the annual Big Ten banquet attended by such football dignitaries as Horween of Harvard, Hawley of Dartmouth and scores of other nationally known coaches.

Notre Dame won the game 7 to 6, but some spectators and football men held that at one period of the game when the ball was grounded behind the Notre Dame goal it should have been scored as a safety for U. S. C.

Schommer held it was a touchback. Drury of the Southern California team was quoted as saying his team "had traveled a long way to be robbed of a victory."

"This business of officiating in football games is getting to be sickening," Schommer declared. "It's disgusting to find football coaches punishing men who do their duty by striking their names off the list of acceptable officials."

"I gave an honest decision in the U. S. C.-Notre Dame game. I'll never stay in the game when I'm asked to do that despite all the criticism of the 'gutless wonders' who punish officials for an adverse ruling."

More than 300 guests cheered Schommer for 10 minutes. He then explained his decision, maintaining Referee Griffith had told him Riley of Notre Dame did not have "possession and control" of the forward pass before he made his ruling.

M'Millan Denies Quitting Geneva

PORT WORTH, Tex., Dec. 3.—Bo M'Millan, all-American quarterback of Centre college, today denied widespread rumors that he is considering quitting Geneva college Beaver Falls, Pa., to accept a contract as head football coach at Rice Institute, Houston. "I am now considering renewal of a contract with Geneva," M'Millan declared.

The four ends who saw the most service this season will be back and the Cards, supposedly weak on the flanks, will have at least four experienced players. Preston and Harder should be a good pair while Muller and Vincent should not be far behind. Davidson also may return.

The tackle strength will suffer by the loss of Chris Freeman and Roland Sellman should have a big year, his third. The fight for Freeman's place promises to be a real one with Warner Hobdy, stellar fullback on last year's freshman, favored over Walt Heinicke, who was used at guard, center, tackle and quarter at times during the past campaign. Hobdy played tackle during his prep school career, part of which was spent at Lake Forest, Ill., where he was on the same team as Jesse Hibbs, big U. S. C. tackle. Bogue and Bigelow, stars of this year's freshmen, also may figure in the race for Freeman's place.

Post and Robesky, the best pair of guards on the Pacific coast, will be back and attend to their old chores. McCreery will be missed at center but there will be some good men available, including Heinicke, Cook, Vermilya and Templeton, the last ineligible this year.

The backfield should be just about as strong as ever. Hyland, Hill and Murphy go but Wilton, Frentrop and a sophomore named Bill Clark, son of George Clark, who captained the Cards 25 years ago, will take care of that left halfback position and Bob Sims will return and there will be other capable candidates for right half.

Lewis will be back at quarter and Eli Post, first string signal-caller in 1926, may return to the university.

"Biff Hoffman has another year at fullback and he will get plenty of assistance from Herb Fleishacker, Robert, Smelling and Dawson and Hillman from this year's frosh.

THE PLAY THAT BEAT SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

Here is the play that enabled Notre Dame to win over Southern California by the margin of one point. With the Trojans leading, 6-0, a long forward pass tied up the game. As it turned out, everything depended on the try for the point after touchdown. Dahman is shown kicking goal for the winning point.

LONG TRIUMPHS OVER TOVAR IN RED HOT SCRAP

Wendell Long, popular Huntington Beach fighter, took a decision over Alex Tovar last night in a hot three-round fight at "Red" Hamilton's fight club at Huntington Beach. The first round found the boys a little careful and feeling each other out with honors about even. Long took the second and third rounds by narrow margins having Tovar down for a short count in the second frame. Long does not show at his best as a careful fighter.

Tovar, a good defensive scrapper, comes from the stable of Jesse Gonzales, midgey fight manager and former newsboy champion of Los Angeles at 87 pounds. Gonzales started six fighters last night and had winners returned in five matches.

The semi-final was a whiz of a battle, Toby Young fighting Johnny Ayala to a standstill in the first round but losing ground in the second and third rounds. He dropped the verdict by a narrow margin. They are a natural match and good for a windup at the Huntington Beach club.

Billy Stotz put away Billy Heffner in the special event. The first round went to Stotz and in the middle of the second stanza Stotz connected with a right to the button and Heffner heard the birdsies.

Zenjido Chavez upset the apparent when he took a well earned decision over Billy Forbes in the third spot. Chavez stopped some hard ones with his chin but kept coming back for more. Both boys were tired at the end.

Armand Brisson was hanging on the ropes in an effort to stay on his feet when the referee stopped the second mixup. Art Lopez, his opponent, is a cool fellow and too good a boy for Armand. Brisson was on the floor for the seven count in the second round.

Johnny Gonzales outpointed Ger-aid Drum in the eye-opener.

Pasadena Defeated by Huntington Park

Pasadena, the Coast Preparatory league's representative in the Southern California interscholastic championship playoffs, was eliminated in the first round yesterday by Huntington Park, the team that "Santa Ana should have met." The score was 18 to 0.

Representing the Bay league, Huntington Park not only clearly outplayed the Bulldogs but also beat them at their own game, the forward pass. The Three Spartan touchdowns were the result, directly or indirectly, of a well executed aerial attack. Huntington Park will now meet Santa Maria.

WEST END THEATER

Monte Blue, hero of so many rousing dramas, is soon to be seen here in a film that is said to endear him more than ever to the public. It is "The Bush Leaguer." The picture opens Sunday at the West End theater.

Monte stars as a modest young Idaho inventor and gas station owner, who breaks the monotony of life by pitching for the team that has its diamond on the lot adjoining his property.

Fate enters in the form of a beautiful motorist who, stopping to have the gasoline tank replenished, so interests the bespectacled youth that he accepts a job on a professional team in her home town, Los Angeles. What follows is a riot. Monte makes of "Specs" White a character uproariously amusing and believably human. Clyde Cook and Leila Hyams, who supported him in "The Brute," are featured. Others in the cast are William Demarest, Richard Tucker, Bud Marshall, Tom Dempsey, Wilfred North, William Wilson, Violet Palmer and Rodney Hildebrand.

WEST COAST-WALKER

Clara Bow in "Get Your Man" opens tomorrow at the West Coast-Walker theater for a three-day engagement.

Not since she appeared as the star in Eleanor Glyn's "It," and gained the name of the "It" girl, has Clara Bow had a starring vehicle which reveals her personality and charm as "Get Your Man."

The story, adapted from a stage success, deals with an American flapper who goes to Paris and there meets a young duke. They become acquainted in a wax works museum and are so engrossed in each other that they fail to notice the closing hour and are locked in for the night. Follows then a series of thrilling and amusing episodes with wax automations.

There is much fun and music in Fanchon and Marco's "Lace Idea," which will be the stage offering.

Clara Bow and Forrest Stanley in a scene from "Wine," picture closing tonight at the Yost Broadway theater.

One of the outstanding features in the presentation are the Tamon Girls.

The Tamon Girls are from the famous school of dancing conducted by Arnold Tamon. The "Lace Idea" has several star teams, including Cushing and Hutton, Mona Lee, Pedro Valdez, and our own Les Shrader and his band.

WEST END THEATER

For the first time, last night, movie fans of this city saw Bob Steele in action on the screen as a western star in "The Mojave Kid," and judging from the reaction of the audience, the young cinema artist should have been gratified with the reception accorded his vehicle at the West End theater.

Bob Steele, only 21, combines all the attributes that should carry him far in his chosen profession, that of a star in western pictures. He seems to be able to ride as only a real cowboy can. He performs all the tricks of horsemanship that are necessary to give the audience a real thrill.

YOST BROADWAY THEATER

An all-star cast has been assembled for the screen version of Ralph Spence's famous mystery-comedy sensation, which comes Sunday to the Yost Broadway theater here. Charlie Murray and Fred Kelsey head the cast in the roles of the two famous trick detectives, Mulligan and Garrity.

Others in the cast are Claude Gillingwater, Tully Marshall, Alice Day, Walter Pidgeon, Brooks Benedict, Aggie Herring and Sydney Crossley.

In its screen version "The Gorilla" is said to be more thrilling, wilder and funnier than the stage presentation, for the plot has been widened.

Those who saw "The Gorilla" as a stage play, are promised a fresh thrill in the screen version, for the ending has been changed so that the suspense is maintained for all, until the final flicker of the last reel.

These MOVIE PEOPLE

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 2.—A great deal of leaping about balconies, trees and that sort of thing. Much good fellowship. Fights. Thrills. Romance.

All are typical of the cinema Douglas Fairbanks. And all have their place in his latest effort, "The Gaucho," plus another element heretofore unknown in Fairbanks films—religion.

Doug has scored another "hit" with "The Gaucho," his first picture in two years. The film is bound to make money, which in itself is proof of the very active actor's popularity. It is doubtful if another actor in Hollywood, with the exception of Charlie Chaplin, could remain away from the silver sheet for two years and not lose his standing.

New Star Started

In addition to presenting Doug in the fitting role of an Argentine bandit, the film brings to light a girl whose future promises to be one of the brightest in Hollywood and also introduces a very decided religious note. Lupe Velez, who came here from Mexico City about seven months ago, scores tremendously as Doug's leading lady. Eve Southern typifies the religion.

The picture is slow in the opening sequences, which could be improved by cutting. But once under way, the tale is unraveled in a most interesting manner.

GOVERNOR YOUNG INVITES NATIONAL G.O.P. CONCLAVE TO MEET IN CALIFORNIA

By ESTO BROUGHTON

(Staff Correspondent, Santa Ana Register)

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 3.—Since with the coming of 1928 only the political stars of the first magnitude will be in the ascendancy, state legislative lights and even gubernatorial timber today prepared to fade out of the lens over-shadowed by presidential bodies.

Democratic star-gazers in the state capitol had their telescope trained on the Milky way of the middle west in search of a farm candidate who might shift his orbit over the White House, Washington, D. C., by March 4th, 1929.

The luminary glowing brightest in this region was Edwin T. Meredith of Iowa, secretary of Agriculture under President Woodrow Wilson. The hope of the Democratic farm bloc and the dries of the arid lands south of the Mason and Dixon line is centered upon the Meredith star waxing bright enough by summer solstice to outshine the Al Smith comet now visible stretched across the sky, head in New York and tail trailing westward to the west Democratic camp in San Francisco.

The Democratic farmers, who have studied the political almanac for years in hope of some legislative relief, are said to have pinned their faith on the Meredith flair. Meanwhile the Republican agriculturalists scorning the Democratic astral faith are looking over the senatorial constellation which sponsored the farm relief legislation voted by Coolidge for a coming presidential star.

The bulky shadow of Herbert Hoover, now secretary of commerce and erstwhile native son of the golden west, apparently has eclipsed for California Republicans a sight of any other candidate if "Silent Cal" really "does not choose to run."

The promised wet and dry clash within the Democratic universe has restored at least temporary life into the almost extinct Democratic volcano in California, according to county registration reports being sent into the state capitol. Old timers who had "left the party" are returning to rotate around new Democratic policies, sun in the house of banking in the warmth of political appointment.

Registration which has shifted to nearly 15 to 1 Republican versus Democrat in the state may be expected to assume a more normal balance in the coming year. The rapid motion and expected explosions in the Democratic ranks is attracting to its maelstrom thousands of recruits it is said by those who know their political heavens.

California's Republican Governor C. C. Young has invited the National Republican convention to his western home and hearth. But political telescopes will still be trained on the stormy Democratic center at a distance, where the unexpected comet may arise, even if they have all the Republican stars under close observation.

CALIFORNIA HAS 621 NEWSPAPERS

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 3.—California has 621 newspapers, of which 139 are dailies. It is revealed by State Printer Carroll Smith, who has completed the compilation of a state newspaper directory.

There are 445 weekly newspapers in the state, 31 semi-weeklies and six tri-weeklies, the report showed. Total circulation of all daily papers is 2,164,152 and of weeklies 639,412.

Two newspapers share honors for being the oldest papers in the state, the report showed. These are the Sacramento Union and the San Jose Mercury-Herald. Each was founded in 1851. The oldest weeklies are Yreka Journal, Yreka; Shasta Journal, Redding, and Placer Herald, Auburn.

Los Angeles county leads the state in number of newspapers, having 33 dailies and 98 weeklies. Republican papers in California number 198; Democratic 32 and independent, 250, the report disclosed.

SOVIETS PLAY WAITING GAME: OIL IS PAWN

By FREDERICK KUH

United Press Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, by United Press)

GROZNY, SOVIET UNION, Dec. 2.—Soviet oil men are playing a waiting game in the hope of holding large oil reserves for decades after America and other countries will have exhausted their own supplies.

If successful, this policy would assure the Russians of one of the most valuable trump cards in the diplomatic gamble and economic struggle of the future. I could see this plan being worked out in Grozny, the oil fields of which are second only to those of Bakou.

They are deliberately curtailing production in the Grozny fields. Were these oil wells and gushers allowed to work at full capacity, their output could be doubled immediately. I watched the Soviet workers in the Grozny oil fields as they turned on only two threads of the four of five-thread screws on the 23 Grozny gushers. They are using a score of other technical twists to conserve their resources and avoid waste in production. If the Soviet oil engineers are calculating aright, their policy of oil conservation will assure them of enormous oil treasures long after the wells of other nations have been pumped dry. They are reckoning with the day when the world will look to Grozny, Bakou and to untapped oil regions of the Soviet union for its petroleum.

In the meantime, however, the Soviet oil fields are by no means idle. Since their conquest of the rich oil deposits of Grozny from the Russian white guards in 1920, the Soviet workers have trebled the Grozny output and will have increased it five times by 1932. Yet they have scarcely begun to tap the immense underground oil stores here, conservatively estimated at 25,000,000 tons.

During the past year, they also enlarged their oil exports, began to flood important European markets with their products and undersold the gigantic private concerns, such as Standard Oil and Royal Dutch. This created the impression abroad that the Russians were squandering their oil and even selling at a loss in order to secure cash quickly and make inroads upon the markets of their rivals. This impression would be dispelled, were it commonly known that the Grozny field netted nearly 30,000,000 roubles profits this year, although the wells were being exploited at only half their capacity.

While they have systematically stemmed the output of oil at Grozny, the 450 Soviet engineers and 17,000 workers in the fields have been engaged in rebuilding the charred ruins which they took over from their enemies in 1920. When the Red Army entered Grozny, the soldiers found the oil fields in flames. Three precious gushers continued to burn for 18 months. Only 70 wells could be exploited. Civil war and privation had demoralized the workmen.

In visiting Grozny seven years after this chaos, I found 470 oil wells being worked. 57,000,000 roubles had been invested in the field, which had amounted to 191,000,000 this year. Grozny engineers this year drilled 92,450 metres as compared with 64,000 in 1921. If their work runs on schedule, the Russians will be producing 365,000,000 pounds of oil in Grozny in 1932. Transport difficulties will prevent any large increase of output next year. But in October, 1928, they will have completed a new 420-mile pipeline from Grozny to Tuapse on the Black Sea at a cost of 27,000,000 roubles with an additional 27,000,000 roubles invested in new oil refineries at Tuapse. This pipeline will carry 60,000,000 pounds of oil a year, an amount which can be raised to 104,000,000 by the erection of five more pumping stations along the line. Most of the money for the construction of the pipe line and Tuapse refineries will be given to the Grozny Oil company by the Soviet treasury. This subsidy, however, will compensate for only part of the heavy taxes and royalties which Grozny has paid to the Soviet government in recent years.

Besides investing in the new pipeline, the Grozny oil management has spent 11,578,000 on new homes for the workers.

The vice president of the Grozny Oil company, Alexei Paigacheff, told me that they intend to invest all money available after technical improvements were executed, in improving the living conditions of their employees.

One of the innovations at Grozny are the roads between the city and the outlying oil fields, five to fifteen miles distant. Before the revolution, the Cosack farmers and wild Chichens tribesmen prevented the building of highways by refusing to yield their land for such purposes, their motive being to profit by the horse-and-wagon traffic, which would have been eliminated by the laying of roads for motor and steam vehicles. Formerly the company engineers had to ride to the oil fields on horseback through miles of ooze and mud. Now the 40 miles of new highways and an equal expanse of railroad in Grozny has made transportation between the city and oil fields and among the fields easy and modern.

Checks Teeth And Then Gets Drunk
MARYSVILLE, Cal., Dec. 3.—You'll have to hand it to Michael Patrick Doyle. The boy knows his false teeth, even if he does get drunk now and then.

Pat checked his teeth at the police station recently, when he felt the urge for a "house" coming on. A little later Pat checked in himself. Next morning he faced Police Judge W. E. Langdon.

"If you'll let me go, judge," he pleaded, "I'll get outa town today. I got a job in Knights Landing."

"All right," was the reply. "Although you were stupid to get drunk, you were wise to check those teeth."

THE CALL TO ARMS

Today in California nearly every person in the State is being reminded of the Great War that is being made on tuberculosis. 116,000,000 Christmas seals have been sent out to prospective purchasers. The funds raised by the State and local tuberculosis associations will be used in 1928 almost entirely in a program of prevention. This boy who sounds the call is being saved from tuberculosis in one of the preventoria in the state. Your dollar kept him out of a hospital bed, and by increasing his resistance against tuberculosis it is also increasing his resistance against other diseases. The associations ask you to use all the seals that you buy.

Oregon Editors To Meet In February

EUGENE, Ore., Dec. 3.—The annual state newspaper conference of Oregon, one of two state journalistic meetings in this state each year, will be held at the University of Oregon, February 10 to 12.

At first it was planned to hold the meeting in January but Ralph R. Cronise, co-publisher of the Albany Democrat-Herald, and president of the conference, postponed it because it conflicted with certain activities of the Oregon State Editorial association.

Another reason for the postponement was that Robert W. Sawyer, publisher and editor of the Bend Bulletin and president of the association, is going east and won't be back until February.

Oregon's two newspaper gatherings are that of the conference, held here each winter, and the summer conventions of the editorial association, held in cities selected by popular vote of the association membership.

Returning to Oregon, Mrs. Henry insisted on stopping to take "one last look." A sparkle caught her eye, and she picked up the brooch. It was slightly bent, with four tiny gems missing, but with the larger stones intact.

"Well, he kept his booze hid in an old boot behind the counter of his soft drink joint," replied the officers.

"Enough said," came back the judge. "He's fined $800."

CURRENT COMMENT

By Chester H. Rowell

"TELL us," said the teaching uléma in an Arabian mosque to an American visitor, "do you people consider the sun or the moon the more beneficial to mankind?" After polite reflection the visitor answered, "the sun." "What ignorant heathen!" said the learned expounder of the Koran. "Has not Allah given your people intelligence enough to know that the sun shines only in the daytime, when there is plenty of light, while the moon shines when we really need it?"

IT SOUNDS foolish, but are we not guilty, in other things of the same fallacy? We overvalue, in education, the subjects which train us to get a personal living, and undervalue those which maintain the institution under which alone a civilized living is possible. We have time to attend to our own business, but no time for our part in the free government which makes the difference between business on one side and the other of the Mexican line. We think a Congressman more useful to us if he brings home an appropriation for his district than if he promotes measures for the general welfare. We, too, think we are better served by the moon, which helps us find our way in the dark, than by the sun which removes the darkness.

ABOUT the only sensible thing that has happened, in the present Chicago farce, was the abrupt departure of Superintendent McAndrew from the hearing where he is on trial for "insubordination" with the announcement that he would come back whenever they took up the charges against him, but would stay away until they got through trying King George. Since all they can do to McAndrew for this defiance is to fire him, and they are going to do that anyway, he is in a position to be cheerfully indifferent to the whole performance, except, of course, to that part—if it is ever reached—in which the charges against him are considered. Then he will merely point out that the books which he is accused of introducing into the schools were actually introduced by Big Bill's own board, under his former administration, and that they do not say the things anyway, which his accusers allege. Then having conclusively established his innocence, he will be promptly found guilty, and depart to a better job in some more enlightened community.

FOR that matter, if the demagogues want to stop the spread of English culture around the world, they will have to go pretty far afield. In Apla recently, Samoan young men and women gave a performance of Shakespeare in the native language. And in New Guinea the authorities are introducing "pidgin" English as the language of general use, among the natives whose speech from tribe to tribe is mutually unintelligible. Literary English is beyond the native mind, they say, but "pidgin" consisting of more or less modified English words, but without grammar and with a construction similar to the primitive native tongues, is easily acquired by both whites and natives, and may soon give the whole island a common means of communication.

THUS the English language and English culture spread, to the benefit of everybody concerned. The Samoans are certainly the better for their contact with Shakespeare, even if most of them know no English, and the Papuans are the better for their knowledge of "pidgin" even if it is English only in its vocabulary, and is confined for the present to their own simple ideas.

THIS "pidgin" by this way, may turn out to be as interesting a linguistic experiment as was the "Lord Latin" which became Italian, French and Spanish. The English, American and Australian languages, evidently, are not going to drift far apart. They differ less now than English and Scotch, and much less than Hanover and Munich German, Paris and Marseilles French, or Tucson and Sicilian Italian. A common culture, schools, travel, newspapers and books, will keep the literary language almost identical, and the spoken language merely interestingly varied. But "pidgin" is a different language even in the beginning, when its words are still recognizably English, and it may become even more different when it becomes the common language of a whole people, through the generations.

"PIDGIN" is now the common means of communication between Europeans and the uneducated classes, throughout the Orient and the Pacific Islands. The writer has heard a German overseer speak to Solomon Island cannibals. The educated classes, in Japan, China and the islands, of course learn literary English, just as the educated classes of Gaul learned Ciceronian Latin. But living languages are made by the common people; not by the learned. We may see, some day, an Oriental English, developed even into a literary language which differs as much from our English as French does from Latin.

COLLEGE PLAN IS ATTACKED AND PRAISED

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 3.—L. O. Culp, dean of the Fullerton Junior college, was the principal speaker at the Lion's session this week. He set forth legal obstacles to be overcome in establishing a county junior college and made it clear that little support of the project could be expected from Fullerton, inasmuch as the present school is considered adequate for Fullerton needs. He declared that establishment of a county junior college would cause an unnecessary burden upon the taxpayers of the district and disrupt the present institution.

Following his remarks, R. J. McFadden, prominent rancher of Placentia, was introduced and in no uncertain terms declared Fullerton's attitude on the proposition of a junior college for Orange county extremely selfish and stated that Placentia and other towns in the northern part of the county would give their hearty support to a centralized junior college, which would materially cut the overhead administration expenses of the two present junior colleges, he said. He declared that the junior college at Fullerton and Santa Ana, gave nothing in the way of agricultural training, while assurance had been given by the board of regents of the state university that if a county junior college was organized, full co-operation and aid would be forthcoming and the state would aid in promoting a school of agriculture in connection with the college.

FULLERTON WALNUT PLANT MAKES $60,000 PAYMENT; $200,000 MARK IS PASSED

FULLERTON, Dec. 3.—Payments to walnut growers marketing through the Fullerton-Placentia Walnut Growers' association passed the $200,000 mark for the season to date with the payment of $60,000 being sent out today, according to Arthur Staley, manager of the association.

Previous to this payment, $150,000 had been sent to the growers. This year's crop is the largest in the history of the association, according to Staley, with approximately 1200 tons handled by the association.

It was estimated by Staley that the total value of walnuts handled through the association will pass $350,000.

Another payment will be made about January 1, it is thought. Of all the nuts shipped from the local house, 570 tons or approximately 50 per cent were soft shell, with 190 tons of budded walnuts and 450 tons of all other classes.

TIDE MACHINE PERFECTED BY NEWPORT MAN

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 3.—A method of harnessing the tides has been perfected here by Asa E. Reed, local hardware dealer. It was reported today. Reed has patented a unique wheel, one which he claims will be turned by ocean currents in such a manner as to effectively harness the tides.

The wheel can be varied in size to meet different conditions. The blades of the wheel are loose and may turn from one side to the other. The best power is developed by currents running parallel to the axis, Reed declares. Other currents will drive the wheel, however.

Reed has constructed a number of models and has had them working in various experiments. Recently, a diver took one of the wheels to the bottom of the ocean in about 20 feet of water and reported that the ocean currents spun the wheel rapidly.

The Newport Beach inventor has spent more than eight years perfecting the machine, which he claims is very near perpetual motion. He has several plans under consideration at present for the ultimate use of the wheel.

Bridge Dinner Honors Miss Nora Lykke and Her Fiance

The latest pre-nuptial festivity with Miss Nora Lykke as incentive, was a delightful dinner and bridge given last night by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Daniger and Mr. and Mrs. William Penn, who made Miss Lykke and her fiance, Robert John Deininger of Torrance, joint guests of honor, entertaining at the Daniger home, 1020 Kilson Drive.

Dinner was served at the card tables, each spread with immaculate linens and centered with a charmingly arranged French bouquet. Place cards were demure old-fashioned ladies, and later did double duty as tally cards. A three-course dinner was served.

Fortune smiled on the honor guests, for their combined scores were the highest of the evening, and won for them the handsome Chinese tray given as first prize. Consolation of a set of ash trays in card symbols, went to Mr. and Mrs. William Stroschein, although Mrs. Stroschein's score entitled her to one of the lovely French bouquets given as table prizes. Miss Lykke and Mrs. Carl Edgar also took table prizes.

It was a veritable Christmas spirit of giving, for the honor guests also received a set of crystal sherbet glasses in attractive design, the gift of the assembled guests.

The wedding of Miss Lykke and Mr. Deininger is to be an event of the coming week, scheduled for Wednesday evening, December 7. Those at last night's party in their honor, included in addition to the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Daniger and Mr. and Mrs. Penn, Mr. and Mrs. William Stroschein, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. McFadden, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Dickey, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Edgar, and Mr. Deininger's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Deininger of Torrance.

Brea-Olinda Teachers Are Entertained

Miss Ruth Goodwin, a member of the faculty of the Brea-Olinda high school, entertained others of the faculty at her home at 522 East Chestnut street, Wednesday evening.

Guests included I. W. Barnett, principal of the school, Mrs. Barnett, Miss Louise Chapman, Miss Beatrice Nebel, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew, Mrs. Grace Reed, Mr. Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Bates, Mrs. Waterman, Mr. Ross, Mrs. Bescke, Miss Edna Neugabauer, Miss Shadforth, Miss Schooner, and Miss Lafarjon and Miss Maxine Zollman, of the Julia Lathrop junior high school.

Calumpit Auxiliary

Members of the Calumpit auxiliary, U. S. W. V., entertained more than 100 guests at their public card party held recently in K. P. hall. Mrs. Elva Hunt, department aide, was in charge of the affair. She announced that proceeds would be added to the Christmas fund for veterans at Sawtelle.

Holders of high scores in 500 were Mrs. Lyman Gilbert and Charles Lindquist with Mrs. Catha and Henry Schoebel, second high. In bridge Mrs. M. C. Johnson and Mr. Thompson won high places and Mrs. Hayhurst and C. E. Waffie, second high. Each one received an attractive gift.

Chefs of certain large restaurants and hotels demand payment of as much as 10 per cent of the bill from merchants who receive large contracts.

THE ANYMATES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Whose hand is reaching down in here?" yelled Clowdy Tynimite, in fear. "I'm sure it's going to grab us. Is there nothing we can do? Then Scouty very loudly cried, 'At least we all can try to hide, for if that hand gets hold of us, 'twill squeeze us right in two.'"

"Ho, ho, ha, ha!" The laugh came loud. At first it frightened all the crowd. And then a gruff voice said, "Don't fret. It's just your giant friend. I only came to set you free. You see you have a friend in me. The wee Bad Buddies are at an end."

"Hurrah! Hurrah!" The Tynies cried. "Please pull us to the bright outside!" And this the friendly giant did. He took them, one by one, and then with very gentle care he pulled them to the open air. Of course they thanked the giant when his rescue task was done.

Said Carpy, "Gee, we're glad you're here. How did the Buddies disappear?" "I caught them," said the giant. And they scampered over the ground. They were scared when they saw me. About as scared as they could be. They ran so fast I do not think they ever will be found."

And then the giant told the bunch he'd lead them to a dandy lunch. They followed him until they reached a cornfield on a hill. "The ears are big, but go ahead and help yourself," the giant said. And so the Tynies started in to eat their hearty fill.

They climbed right up the stalks real quick, and Clowdy shouted, "This is slick. I've never seen such monstrous corn as we are seeing here." And then he didn't hesitate, but ate and ate and ate. He plucked the tasty kernels loose while sitting on an ear.

(The giant makes a house for the Tynies in the next story).

Two December Brides Share Honors at Showers

For Miss Haley

Mrs. Dale Brockett and her sister, Miss Marjorie Peebles, joined in planning one of the week's prettiest parties, making Miss Margaret Haley their honoree, in anticipation of her late December wedding to Herbert Meissinger.

The Brockett home at 2411 North French street, was eloquent of Christmas, with its vivid decorations as a background for a number of bridge tables. In the contest which filled the evening hours, Mrs. Homer De Weese (Dorothy Peebles) took the attractive first prize, Miss Marian Marsh, second, and Miss Margaret Barclay, third. Guest prize went to Miss Haley, and was a shower of pretty and useful things, selected by the guests for her future kitchen.

Bridge tables were then spread with embroidered linens, and arranged with Christmas appointments, and to the light of many gleaming candles, Mrs. Brockett and Miss Peebles served a menu of salads, Christmas fruit cake and other dainties.

The guest list included in addition to the honoree and her mother, Mrs. O. A. Haley, Mesdames C. R. Chandler, Frank Briggs, Aljoe Marsh, William Reilly, Edith Brooks, Homer De Weese, Joseph Plank, Helen McCollum, Newton Richards, Hugh Haley, and the Misses Ruth Vieira, Helen Sawday, Beatrice Brown, Edna Dunbar, Marian Marsh and Margaret Barclay.

Thanksgiving Party

The enjoyable shower for Miss Haley was reminiscent of a similar party which the latter had given a few days previously, for Miss Peebles, who will be the bride of Herbert Kaufman at the same ceremony which will unite Miss Haley and Mr. Meissinger.

The earlier affair was held at the Haley home, 2420 North Park boulevard, and was a bridge and shower also. Mrs. Hugh Haley, Mrs. Edith Brooks and Mrs. Frank Briggs scored first, second and third in bridge, and received the desirable prizes chosen by the hostess. To Miss Peebles was presented an array of lovely gifts in wide variety, showered on her by her friends.

Since the party was given in late November, the Thanksgiving motif was used in appointments of the tables where refreshments were served.

Guests were Mesdames Dale Brockett, Hugh Haley, Homer De Weese, W. W. Reilly, Aljoe Marsh, Frank Briggs, Donald Fletcher, Edith Brooks, Joseph Plank, Luther Ray, Harry Huffman, Helen McCollum, Earl Roberts, Joseph Blanchard, the Misses Beatrice Brown, Edna Dunbar, Helen Sawday, Margaret Barclay, Ethel Richardson, Ruth Vieira, Marian Marsh and Helen Allen.

Neighborly Club Dons Tacky Garments for Lively Meeting

It was a pretty seedy looking group that gathered in the Joe Hauptert home, 521 Garfield street, Thursday night, when the 800 Block club held a meeting, for the friendly neighbors forming the club, planned to make it a tacky party, and appeared in the raggedest garments they could find.

Each bore some contribution to the evening meal, and tables presented a quaint appearance with a variety of ancient dishes and newspaper covers. Supper was served cafeteria style, and was an enjoyable interval. At its conclusion, games were played, and appropriate prizes were presented Mrs. David Caldwell and Lawrence Hauptert for high scores, Dr. I. W. Bouldin and Mrs. Frank Calkins for low.

Costume prizes were won by Mrs. Calkins and William Dietrich, whose outfits were deemed worthy of the very rulers of hobo-dom.

Enjoying the hospitality of the Hauptert home were Dr. and Mrs. I. W. Bouldin, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Calkins, Mr. and Mrs. William Dietrich, Mrs. David Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Groover, Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Lamme, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lamme, Mrs. Ida Deck and young daughters, Olga and Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McBurney and little daughters, Jean-Estelle, Sharlene and Roberta, Mr. McBurney sr., Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Kolbe and daughters, Betty and Dorothy; Roscoe Dietrich, Phyllis Dietrich, and the young people of the Hauptert home, Lawrence, Bernard Paul, Geraldine and Dorine.

Colonial Days Reviewed By Pegasus Club Members

With Mrs. C. F. Jackson in charge of the program, Pegasus club members held an enjoyable afternoon meeting Thursday with Mrs. Bruce Switzer, 1238 South Van Ness avenue, giving their attention to study of "Colonial Days."

Mrs. Russell R. Caldwell fluently described the New England home of John Hancock, one of the most famous of the "Signers." Mrs. G. W. Bond read a charming original poem, "The Garrett," and Mrs. C. C. Fuller gave "The Courtship of Miles Standish" as a reading.

"Witchery in Salem" was the theme of an article by Mrs. Charles Bonds, and Mrs. Earl Morris read a paper, on "How Harvard University was Established." "Education During Colonial Days" was the theme of Mrs. Clarence Bond's paper, and the interesting program closed with a group of child poems read by Mrs. Switzer.

Pegasus members lingered for a discussion of the program and a friendly chat during which the hostess served an appetizing tea menu.

Parent-Teachers

McKinley One of the most interesting meetings ever held by the McKinley P.-T. A. was attended by about 100 fathers and mothers of the organization Thursday night in the kindergarten room.

The meeting was opened by the flag salute and singing of the P.-T. A. song, led by Miss Hatch. The first number of the program was the popular kindergarten band which pleased with several very clever numbers, under the direction of the teacher, Miss Clarice Marx. The band this year is led by Master Kenneth Skinner.

Roll call showed that the kindergarten had the largest number of parents present and will be the proud possessors of the picture which is awarded each meeting for the highest attendance. A treasurer's report given by Mrs. Chester Clark, showed a balance of over $56.

J. A. Cranston, city superintendent, gave an interesting and humorous address, complimenting the organization on its large attendance and urging all parents to join and try to make this a 100 per cent year. He told of his experiences in the schools and some of the sayings of children in his association with them. Concluding his address he read Edgar Guest's poem "Home."

Miss Ariel Thompson and Russell Thompson of the Bluebird Hawaiian trio, rendered several numbers on the steel guitars. Both are KFOY radio artists, and their services were enjoyed and appreciated by those present.

A new constitution drawn up by Mrs. F. H. Helne, parliamentarian of the school, was read and adopted.

The present charter which was recently framed was shown and will be hung in the office of the school.

Two piano solos by Fred Cartwright were enjoyed as were also duets by Ronald and Donald Bush on the guitar. Refreshments of sandwiches, pumpkin pie and coffee were served by the sixth grade mothers and a delightful social hour was held.

The next meeting will be on January 26 and will be in charge of the first grade mothers.

ELECTRIC WAVES THAT LEFT EUROPE BEFORE 1/60 OF A SECOND

Yesterday's strip explained the telephoto; today's deals with the radiophoto, which makes it possible to bring news pictures from Europe in a few hours. The system is somewhat similar to telephoto except that the picture is received in duplicate at the receiving end, both on a paper record and photographic film.

By NEA, Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge, Copyright, 1923-26. 10/1

This picture of the Prince of Wales is a reproduction of the first sent across the Atlantic, on Nov. 30, 1924.

The photographic record, second part of the duplicate process of receiving radiophotos, is made on an ordinary camera film inside a specially constructed camera, a beam of light playing upon the film instead of pen upon paper. This is developed like any film. Capt. R. H. Ranger, pictured above, developed the apparatus for sending photos by radio.

CHARLES ARE NUMEROUS IN STATE CAPITOL

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
United Press Staff Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 2.—Suppose some ambitious gent should walk out into the lower corridors of the state capitol one of these mornings and yell "Charles!" in a loud voice.

Chances are he'd be mobbed in short order.

For there are more "Charles" under the big dome than you can shake a stick at. You can't go anywhere in the building without bumping into one. Look 'em over: Charles A. Whitmore, private secretary to Governor Young; Charles Taylor, elevator operator; Charles "Gus" Johnson, state treasurer; Charles Beard, tree specialist; Charles J. Hagerty, deputy secretary of state; Charles O'Connor, chief recording clerk, secretary of the state's office; J. Charles Jones, deputy attorney general; Charles Cassin, attorney; Charles Hartmeyer, custodian, Fort Sutter, and Charles Peterson, clerk state purchasing agent's office.

What with the threatened resignation of the state athletic commission because of the recent Dundee-Hudkins prizefight fiasco, and the expiration of terms of more than 25 officials serving on state boards and commissions, Governor Young is devoting quite a little attention to candidates for appointment these days.

It's been an open secret for some time that Will J. French, of San Francisco, former member of the industrial accident commission, will succeed John W. Carrigan on the commission. French, it is definitely known, will be designated as chairman of the commission, a post which automatically makes him director of industrial relations and a member of Governor Young's cabinet.

Then there's a flock of other state board, bureau and commission members' terms that have expired. Some of these are:

State board of osteopathic examiners, three members; board of accountancy, four members; board of architecture, six members; bureau of criminal identification, one member; historic survey commission, three members; industrial welfare commission, one member; board of medical examiners, two members; board of pharmacy, one member; San Francisco pilot commission, three members; board of embalmers, two members.

As a wisecracker at the governor's council meeting, Bert B. Meek, director of public works, thus far holds the medal.

Talk at the last meeting centered on the proposal to provide industrial training for the blind of California. The question arose as to what crafts should be taught the blind.

"I hope it's a better occupation than that they learn at San Quentin," Meek solemnly observed. "There we teach 'em to make jute bags. After they get out and want to practice their trade, they have to go to India."

More business, more talk. With the new state capital annex in use, 250 telephones have been thrown into operation through the state capitol switchboard.

A partition is being knocked out between the present telephone room and the state purchasing office, to make room for three additional telephone units to the switchboard. This will accommodate approximately 450 telephones on the state capitol exchange, according to Cruz Wallquist, chief operator.

Purchasing quarters have been moved down into the basement and occupy the old governor's supply room. Frank Killam, chief of buildings and grounds, will move his office into the room vacated by the purchasing office.

Some time in January, Charles A. Whitmore, the governor's private secretary, will round out five years of 100 per cent attendance at Rotary club meetings. Part of the credit for this unique record is due, however, to "Bob" Alexander, deputy state printer, who faithfully brings down a notice to Whitmore's office on the day of Rotary meetings.

The Nature Of True Worship

TEXT: ISAIAH 51:12

Now will I sing to my well-beloved a song of my beloved touching his vineyard. My well-beloved hath a vineyard in a very fruitful hill. And he fenced it, and gathered out the stones thereof, and planted it with the choicest vine, and built a tower in the midst of it, and also made a wine press therein; and he looked that it should bring forth grapes, and it brought forth wild grapes.

And now, O inhabitants of Jerusalem, and men of Judah, judge, I pray you, betwixt me and my vineyard.

What could have been done more to my vineyard, that I have not done it in? wherefore, when I looked that it should bring forth grapes, brought it forth wild grapes?

And now, go to; I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard: I will take away the hedge thereof, and it shall be eaten up; and break down the wall thereof, and it shall be trodden down:

And I will lay it waste; it shall not be pruned nor digged; but there shall come up briars and thorns: I will also command the clouds that they rain no rain upon it.

For the vineyard of the Lord of hosts is the house of Israel, and the men of Judah his pleasant plant: and he looked for judgment, but behold oppression; for righteousness, but behold a cry.

Woe unto them that join house to house, that lay field to field, till there be no place, that they may be placed alone in the midst of the earth!

In mine ears said the Lord of hosts, Of a truth, many houses shall be desolate, even great and fair, without inhabitant. Yea, ten acres of vineyard shall yield one bath, and the seed of an homer shall yield an ephah.

Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning, that they may allow strong drink: that continue until night, till wine inflame them! And the harp and viol, the tabret and pipe, and wine, are in their feasts; but they regard not the work of the Lord, neither consider the operation of his hands.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Dec. 4. The Elements of Right Living. Isa. 51:12.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.
A prophecy that began so splendidly as Isaiah's in its introduction and in its supreme emphasis upon religious reality as against mere form and profession, is bound to find well in the constructive principles of right living.

It is these things that we find emphasized in the lesson for to-have been established, and then when the vineyard should have brought forth grapes what was the disappointment of the vineyard keeper to find that it brought forth wild grapes!

Is not this in deed and in truth a real parable of life? How much of goodness in precept and example have been lavished upon human life and yet it still brings forth so much of wild fruit?

What one of us reveals a proper beauty and fruitfulness of living at all in proportion to the opportunities that he has had, and to all the loving and care that in home and school have been lavished upon him?

Isaiah makes his own application: "The vineyard of Jehovah of hosts is the house of Israel, and the men of Judah his pleasant plant; and he looked for justice, but, behold, oppression; for righteousness, but, behold, a cry."

We, however, must make the application for our own time. The people of America are the vineyard of the Lord. Are we making that vineyard more productive in good works, in simple justice, in truth, in love, and kindness? "Woe unto them," saith Isaiah, "that join house to house, that lay field to field, till there be no room!"

Does not that sound very much like some of our modern encroachments upon life? Individuals and corporations grasping and getting more and more under their control, until the very life and happiness of the people is at their mercy!

Other wrongs also that mar the beauty of our modern day were apparently present in Israel—"Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning, that they may follow strong drink; that tarry late into the night, till wine inflame them!" The death-dealing power of alcohol has been age-long in its manifestations.

There is, in fact, even a certain amount of justice and application in this present lazy age for Isaiah's reference to the harp and the lute, and the tabret and the pipe.

No man would want to decry the place of good music and the joy and excitement even of lively music, but can anyone listen-in to the radio night after night without a feeling that our age is in some respects music mad, or at least that the great part of our music, if it be not on a low plane, seldom touches the higher spheres of life?

It is not the man of religion or the rigid and strict moralist who criticizes these things. They are quite as keenly criticized by people who approach the whole matter simply from the standpoint of art and good feeling. But one is often led to wonder whether those things can ever be artistically great and beautiful in their simplicity and purpose until they are refined and lifted up in a common consecration to the highest aspirations of man—the things that relate him to the divine.

At any rate it ought to be sufficiently evident to the most casual student of this lesson that he is dealing not merely with some ancient preachment that is to be studied only in relation to a period of centuries ago.

It is a document of vital and permanent truth that has come down to us through the great Book that applies with keen reality to our own time. We ought to study it in the light of its significance for our personal lives and for the society in which these lives are cast.

DAVIDSON BELIEVES WOULD FIGHT SMITH

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The entire south would fight the election of Gov. Al Smith because of his religion and his stand on prohibition, Lynch Davidson, of Houston, Tex., believes.

"His nomination at the Democratic convention would drive a rift in the party ranks as gorgeous to Republican eyes as the Grand Canyon or Arizona," Davidson said in an interview here. "A Tammany tag does not wear well with the average voter outside New York state."

Urges Abolition Of Anti-German Prejudice In U. S.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 3.—Abolition of anti-German prejudices developed by the World war was urged in an address here by Robert L. Owen, former U. S. senator from Oklahoma.

Owen addressed a mass meeting commemorating the sequel-centennial anniversary of Maj. Gen. Frederick William Von Steuben's arrival in America.

"German leaders did not will the war and did not want it," Owen said. "The entire record shows that the German government made the most strenuous efforts to prevent a general European war and that Russian and French leaders were resolutely determined on war."

Big Bill Answers Protest Against 'Garbage' Parade

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—Mayor William Hale Thompson's Americanization campaign has bumped into a collection of garbage wagons.

The mayor recently announced plans for a parade of all the city's waste food limousines to celebrate opening of a new incinerator. Each of the wagons, scrubbed and deodorized, would carry an American flag, he said.

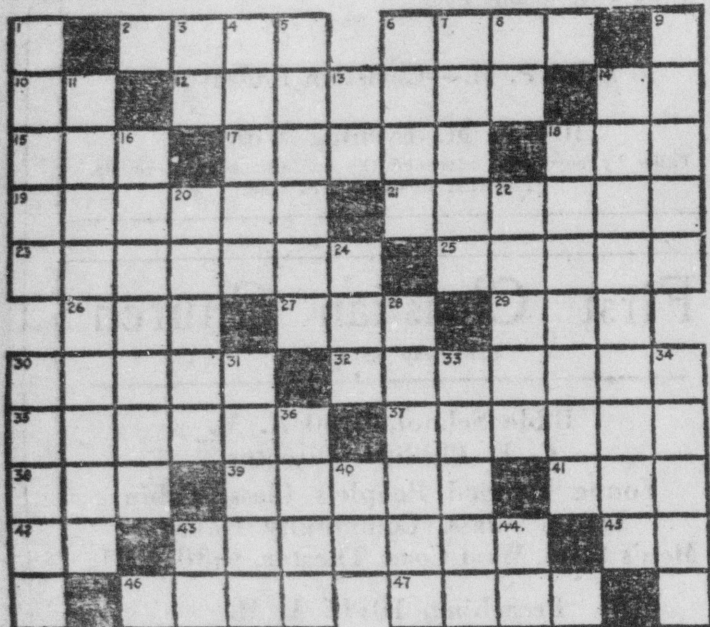

The American Flag association formally protested to Thompson against what it considered "desecration of the flag."

To which the mayor pertinently replied that the University of Chicago is educating school teachers to teach 650,000 Chicago children that George Washington was a rebel and a traitor. He invited the flag association to join his campaign for more heroic heroes.

JACK LOCKWELL

By Patten

The witnesses of that unusual affair upon the campus afterwards declared that the seven seniors could not have taken the cane from Lockwell unaided. And many of those who saw the whole of it said also that, instead of trying to help his classmate, Maddox and Hargan clearly upset him intentionally. Buck Gannon immediately broke the cane across his knee.

"Now what are we going to do with this miserable freshman?" said Gannon, in fury over the outrage. "Sh! sh!" cautioned one of the witnesses. "Here comes Prexy!"

Professor Jamison, sometimes called "Old Nemesis," was approaching. He glanced sharply at Jack, and stopped. "You seem to be injured, Lockwell," he said quizzically.

"Only slightly, sir," Jack answered. "It's of no consequence." "But what were you doing on the ground a few moments ago?" persisted Old Nemesis. "Why, I was taking some exercise, and I missed my footing, and fell." "A boy with his arm in a sling shouldn't take such violent exercise," said the professor. "I advise you to be careful." Then he walked onward.

BURGLARS ROB ONE HOUSE AND TAKE JEWELS

One Santa Ana home was robbed last night and burglars attempted to enter two others, according to reports filed with the city police. Jewelry was taken from the home of Gladys Bush, 1553 French street, early last night, while members of the family were away from home, according to a report. Among the articles taken was a jewel box, one ring set with a pearl, one ring set with topaz and a silver ring; a dark gold chain and lavalier and an old fashioned brooch set with three clusters of garnets.

Entrance into the house was made after a hook had been used to unfasten a screen door on the back porch. Officer E. E. Perry made an investigation.

A burglar was frightened away from the home of H. C. Crockett, 501 Wisteria place, last night, by a neighbor who saw him attempting to enter a bedroom window, according to a report filed with the police.

Prowlers were reported attempting to enter the Broadway apartments, Third and Broadway, late last night. They climbed up the back stairs to the roof and attempted to enter a window, it was reported.

Chief of Police Claude Rogers said today that with the increase in reports concerning prowlers that the police department has announced the arrest of a young boy, held in connection with prowling in one district of the city and who is believed to have been responsible for a number of complaints, he said. The boy has been turned over to the juvenile authorities, Rogers said.

ROY LYON RECEIVES CARLOAD OF TIRES

Roy J. Lyon, G. and J. tire distributor at 108 East First street, has just received a carload of tires from the factory, he announced today.

Pointing out that the G. and J. Tire company was manufacturing tires when the automobile was more or less a dream, Lyon said the line carries a tire for every purpose.

"The line is popular in Orange county and it is necessary to buy in carload lots in order to meet the demand," Lyon said.

Take Time For Vocation, King Advises Youth

On occasion was when the king personally presented the boy, Allen Way, with the medal which he gives annually to the best student at King Edward VII grammar school here.

"Do you know," the king added, "that a young man once went to the university intending to become a lawyer? He entered the church instead, and is now archbishop of York!"

"Gold Finder" Is Used By Hunter

ANCON, Panama, Dec. 2.—Pirate gold which legend says amounts to $50,000,000 is the subject of the latest quest of George Williams and his "scientific gold finder." His mysterious machine, the secrets of which he closely guards, is said to have uncovered several small finds in Central America.

The new expedition is heading for Cocos Island, where some of Sir Henry Morgan's treasure is supposed to have been buried. Williams holds a four-year treasure-hunting concession on certain portions of Panama and has been delving in the ruins of old Porto Bello.

WANTED: AN OPPOSITION PARTY

Unless something unforeseen happens, the Republicans are almost certain to elect the next president. There is no reason why the electorate should swap horses at the next national election. It would be difficult to tell which party is in power in Washington so far as national policies are concerned. As many Democrats have voted with Republicans on important issues as Republicans have voted with Democrats. Except in the matter of offices and organization it is hard to draw lines between some Republicans and some Democrats, and some Democrats and some Republicans. On the question of tax reduction, there is no Democratic policy. On relief for the farmer, there is no Democratic policy. On the question of foreign affairs there is no Democratic policy.

All this is very unfortunate. A vigorous and clear cut opposition is good for the party in power, and it is good for the country. So far as we are able to observe there is no great outstanding national policy arresting the attention of the country, unless it be the prohibition issue, and there one party is just as lukewarm as the other. Neither of them dare to say anything specifically about the matter, glossing over the whole question by the vague suggestion of law enforcement, which may mean a dozen different things in the minds of as many different people. It may apply to Communists, to automobile speeders, to oil land grafters, or to exploiting corporations, as well as to prohibition. It is too much to expect, but one of the most salutary things that could happen, both for the country and for the Republican party, would be for the Democratic party to launch out with such clear cut issues as lifted Woodrow Wilson into the presidential chair. But where are the prospects?

INTERPRETING COOLIDGE'S "I DO NOT CHOOSE"

Seventy Vermonters have been interviewed by John B. Barrett of Pan-American fame, himself a Vermont, to find out what is meant by the President's "I do not choose." And the conclusion from those interviewed is that the President will not run. But still the politicians are not convinced.

It is the work of theologians and of jurists to interpret phrases used long ago by men who left important writings. The language of Jesus and of Paul has been subjected to the closest scrutiny by the most erudite scholars to find out, if possible, what was in the mind of these great religious leaders. But the disagreement among scholars indicates quite clearly that what they meant by certain phrases and terms is not quite yet understood. So the plain statements of the makers of the Constitution have been the subject of closest scrutiny by jurists. And there too, the wisest of them are not agreed. How often we would have welcomed the return of these teachers and phrasemakers to find out exactly what they had in mind. But it never can be done.

We cannot see why some inquisitive correspondent who attends the weekly conferences of the president with the men of the press does not ask the president what he meant by the phrase, "I do not choose." The meaning of it should not be left to the dubious decisions of posterity when it is so easy to find out. Who will have the courage to ask the secret riddle of our sphinx-like president? Politicians dare not. Friends dare not. Where is the newspaper man who will dare? Fame will be his. The gratitude of scores of presidential aspirants will be his. And the burning curiosity of thousands in this land will be gratified. Columns and columns of newspapers will be released for writing important matter.

WELCOME TO ORANGE COUNTY

Orange county people are a reading folk. They know the value of newspapers and there are many weekly papers in the county. One of these papers, The South Coast News, published at Laguna Beach announces that Mr. Harold F. McCormick of Chicago has just purchased a half interest in the paper and Summer Crosby takes charge as editor of the paper.

We desire to welcome these newcomers into the newspaper field in Orange county and to express the hope and belief that they will find their experience profitable and enjoyable. We understand that these are among the people in Orange county who believe in Orange county as a whole. They are for the development of their own portion of it but they see the advantages of the unification as far as possible of Orange county and the value of creating good will on behalf of every other part than their own.

There is this spirit of building up, that should be commended. As Ole Hanson puts it, every dollar expended with merchants in Orange county helps the tax-payers in Orange county and helps every taxpayer in Orange county, and every dollar that is expended outside of Orange county that might be spent in it hurts every taxpayer in Orange county.

Papers and men which spend their time and energy arousing prejudice are destructive in their work and cannot permanently win. Orange county, to reach its highest development, must meet it in a spirit of unity and the more educational work that is done along this line, the better for us all. We are glad that the future of The South Coast News is so bright. With the financial means and added talent to what was already a real going concern, we know that Laguna Beach's interest will be looked after wisely and well.

Welcome to Orange county!

YES! HE IS RIGHT

We do not agree with Governor Smith's attitude on prohibition. But that he has a right to that attitude, as an individual, certainly no one can deny. And he is right when he declared yesterday that people who are opposed to any law, or any Constitutional provision have the right to meet together and organize and express such opposition. They have not the right to disobey or nullify either the law or the Constitution but they have to appeal to the public to change the law and the Constitution to the way they think it should be. To deny them such right would be virtually to deny ourselves the power to make any change in law or Constitution, either addition or subtraction, to adapt it more completely to the conditions of today.

People should not be opposed to either Governor Smith or his followers on the ground that they should not exercise their power of opposition in a legal manner to anything of a political nature. The ground for opposition, if any, is a disagreement with the objective.

Governor Smith has pointed out, really, in his statement a mistake that is very common among all classes of folks. Because we believe in the Constitution and the law, we get into an attitude of mind that causes us to place any who criticize the Constitution and law in a category of unpatriotic, Bolshevik, Red group who haven't any right even to speak. We should remember that all reform in America has come about through an assault, really on our Constitution.

We worship today at the shrine of William Lloyd Garrison. Yet Garrison's burning words that the "Constitution is a league with death and a covenant with Hell," contained the germ of all of his relentless fight for the freedom of the slaves. Those of us who have fought for the eighteenth and nineteenth amendments must bear in mind that while that opposition was turned from a majority into a minority that that minority still has the same right of expression that we had when we were in the minority. The right to make a change is incidental to the right to make a second change or to change back.

We are opposed to changing or weakening the eighteenth amendment but we are not opposed to any man or group of men endeavoring to make a change in this, or any other change that they believe wise or right providing their effort is a legal and constitutional effort. We believe they are entitled to a hearing and we are glad to meet their arguments anywhere. We believe that the effort to deny people the right to produce their argument or state their position is not only contrary to the spirit of our Constitution and our government but is subversive to the best interests of society. It makes it more difficult to live together in a friendly way.

The Truce With the Bear

Riverside Enterprise

Nearly thirty years ago, a young English poet created a sensation throughout the world by a series of prophetic poems affecting the political affairs of the world, particularly those of the British Empire. One was "The Reckless" and another, "The White Man's Burden." In the former he stressed the danger to England's future if she should place all of her trust in "Reeking tube and iron shield." In the other he questioned the policy of extension of the "White man's" civilization into the countries of the black man, referring to America's new island holding and the responsibilities thus entailed of attempting to protect, govern and civilize them.

There was another poem about "The Truce of the Bear," also written by Rudyard Kipling, in which he questioned the good faith of Russia, at that time urging world disarmament agreements at the Hague peace conference. Kipling, in his poem, voiced the international suspicions of the day, directed against Russia and told the story of "Adamzad, the bear that walks like a man," and in this poem presumed to be Russia, which after inducing a hunter to disarm himself, because of the bear's apparent pitiable condition, arose and smote his unprotected victim to death.

Kipling questioned the sincerity of Russia's disarmament proposals and intimated that the suggestion was made for the purpose of getting the rest of the nations in a helpless condition, after which the bear would rise in all his might and smite them. And now comes Soviet Russia, again proposing world disarmament to the League of Nations and it is received by England and some of the powers in the same spirit of skepticism as was the proposal of nearly thirty years ago, made by an Imperial Russia.

One wonders whether anything more terrible than the World War, which resulted through the failure to disarm in the late nineties, could have happened had the world seen fit to disarm at that time.

The other nations accuse Russia of playing to the galleries and making a gesture for effect. The suggestion is in the open, however, and there is nothing excepting the imbedded racial distrusts and hatreds of the nations that can stand in the way of ultimate disarmament.

Health Topics

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor of Journal of American Medical Association

SOME SKIN DISEASES DUE TO OCCUPATIONS
Specialists in diseases of the skin have a special classification of inflammations which includes all of the irritations due to conditions occurring in industry.

A recent investigation of women workers in the porcelain and pottery factories of Russia revealed special changes in the skin and nails in female glaze pourers who work with lead glaze. These investigators found the skin of the hands and forearms of the workers very dry, rough and swollen; particles of the glaze adhered to the skin and could not be removed by washing.

The irritated spots became easily infected. The finger nails were thin and brittle with saw-like edges. Sometimes they cracked longitudinally.

Turpentine Fumes

In the decorating department where women designers worked with colors thinned with turpentine, the skin also became infected frequently following irritation. The air in such rooms is constantly saturated with turpentine fumes, and it is known that the inhalation of turpentine may have severe effects on the kidneys.

In such industries arrangements must be made to carry off the turpentine fumes, and workers may be provided with rubber gloves to prevent irritations of the hands.
Workers in nickel plating plants sometimes develop an irritation of the skin known as "nickel rash." Apparently nickel rash is due to the fact that various cleaning fluids first irritate the skin and thus make it especially likely to be irritated by the nickel.

Petroleum, benzene, lime and potash are substances which may injure the skin seriously.

Rubber Industry

In the rubber industry dippers develop cracks on the inside of the hand and eruptions on the rest of the skin from the substance involved in rubber solutions. Irritations of the skin may be prevented by protecting the hands with gloves.

The chief danger arises, however, not so much from the original irritation as from the likelihood of secondary infection by pus-forming bacteria, which can attack easily a broken skin, but which do not affect seriously an unbroken one.

Disinfection of the skin by the use of appropriate cleaning after the worker leaves his work will prevent much of this infection.

ON GIVING UP

Time was when duty made me stay
While pleasure danced along the way
Regretfully I used to say:

"Ill-luck is mine;
'Tis bitter fate that I must miss
So very rare a treat as this
To stay where gloomy business is
And toe the line."

Keen disappointment was my lot
I thought it hard that I could not Always be Johnny-on-the-spot
Where fun was rife.

And not to go where others went
Gayly to see some big event
Harried my soul with discontent
And spoiled my life.

But older now I can forego
The sweetest pleasures which I know
And never sign of anger show.

Joys great and small
So crowd the swift days flying by
That I refuse to frown or sigh
At missing some. I've learned that I
Can't have them all.

And so unto myself I say:
"Enjoy what fortune sends today,
But when some pleasure gets away
Remember this:

Don't sit around and sigh and frown
Wailing that life has thrown you down.
The strongest, richest man in town
Some joys must miss."

Marconi on Work

Only the feeble-minded or the prematurely old stop and abandon their life's interest for the sake of idleness, according to William Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy.

Marconi himself has few idle moments. He has laboratories in Italy, in England, on his yacht Electra, and in America where he is now visiting.

We know a man of 70 who owned a little store, where anything might be bought, from dry goods to water faucets. He retired, sold out and moved to a better climate. In two months he was back and is negotiating for the purchase of his old place. "Every day here," he said, "people would drop in to buy some little thing and say hello. The kids would buy candy. Next thing you know the same kids would want a football. Then they came around for a lawnmower. Then their kids would come in for candy. I've seen three generations grow up here and I know them all."

"When I sold out I needed a rest. A week's rest was really all I needed, because after that I thought I would go crazy looking for some of the old friends to talk to, and trying to find something for my hands to do."

A Wall Street broker sold his seat on the exchange. After three months he was back and bought his old membership at a higher price. The clamor, the talk, the excited trading had become as much a part of him as the trolley is to the street car. He found that without it he could go no further.

The wireless has become a part of Marconi's life. It is his child—he is watching it grow up "into the lawnmower age." It is the same with Edison and electricity, with Ford and his automobile, and so on, to countless others. John D. Rockefeller apparently has retired, but in Wall Street they know differently, for they have traced the touch of the great oil dealer through numerous recent transactions.

When we lose interest in our work, we are losing a vital part of our beings. For our work is what we are.

ON THE SIDE LINES

Which May or May Not Be in Accord With the Views of The Register

By Horace McPhee

THEY CHANGED THEIR MINDS—Nothing so wonderful, or indeed strange, in the fact that a great many people have changed their minds in reference to the feasibility or advisability of so utilizing Newport bay as to transform it into a secure and permanent harbor! Oh, yes, there were a great many of us, say a dozen years ago, or thereabouts, who were outspoken in the belief that a harbor at Newport was impossible, and, more, that even if it were possible it could not be made to pay. But, bless your dear heart, that was a dozen or more, years ago, and the most of us have learned, during that time, that a whole lot of things which we then thought we knew most thoroughly we did not know at all.

And the wisest of us make mistakes, and fall correctly to judge what is and is not possible. For instance, and as an example, a little more than 40 years ago salesmen were going about endeavoring to interest country publishers and printers in buying stock in a concern known as the Mergenthaler Linotype company, the plan of the company being to manufacture a machine which would set type.

People who thought they knew all about type setting and kindred subjects laughed at the idea of successfully building such a machine, and, indeed, the first machines turned out were not a success. But later they were so improved as to revolutionize printing and the printing business. And, "lest we forget" here is the story of what the wise people "even as you and I" thought of the telephone, some 50 years ago.

At that time a Boston newspaper, seeking, of course, to serve the best interests of its constituents, published the following:

"A man about 45 years of age giving the name of Joshua Copper-smith has been arrested in New York for attempting to extort funds from ignorant and superstitious people by exhibiting a device which he says will convey the human voice any distance over metallic wires so that it will be heard by the listener on the other end. He calls this instrument a 'telephone,' which is obviously intended to imitate the word 'telegraph' and win the confidence of those who know nothing of the latter instrument without understanding the principles on which it is based. Well informed people know that it is impossible to transmit the human voice over wires as may be done with dots and dashes and signals of the Morse code, and that, were it possible to do so, the thing would be of no practical value. The authorities who apprehended this criminal are to be congratulated and it is hoped that his punishment will be prompt and fitting, that it may serve as an example to other conscientious schemers who enrich themselves at the expense of their fellow creatures."

IS IT ANY WONDER—Believing that the holding of the Republican National convention in San Francisco would be a good thing for business there, an effort was gotten under way, several months ago, with that end in view. In order that telling and systematic work could be done, it was deemed necessary to raise a fund to be devoted to paying the legitimate expenses of the convention, and San Francisco business men got together and subscribed $50,000 as such fund. Noticeable in the fact that San Francisco did not even ask the prosperous cities across the bay to help in the work in a financial way.

With the idea of having Los Angeles chosen as the place for holding the next Olympian games a movement was, several months ago, gotten under way to secure them, and prominent Los Angeles men got to work with that end in view. With full knowledge that a great deal of money would be needed in order to carry out the plan, steps were taken to secure the sum of $100,000. By public subscription of those expecting to benefit, should the world's greatest series of athletic sports be pulled off in Los Angeles? Well, not that any one could notice it! Los Angeles, as

What a privilege and benefaction it would seem for taxpayers living 500 or more (in many instances much more) miles away to dig up additional tax money to pay the expense of holding a big series of sporting events in Los Angeles!

When a proposition such as this can be proposed in seeming good faith by any city, of any state, is it any wonder that such city is regarded with distrust even approaching hatred?

TAXATION WITHOUT REPRESENTATION—One good thing can, and doubtless will, be accomplished by the submission to the voters of California of the proposition to tax the whole state to raise a million dollars to be expended in holding the Olympian games in Los Angeles. It will afford the voters of Southern California who do not have the felicity of living in the city of Los Angeles, an opportunity to vote against the plan to raise one million dollars, or any other sum, at the expense of the whole, whilst the benefit, if indeed there should be any benefit, could accrue to a comparatively small part of that whole.

Talk about taxation without representation! Was a more complete instance of it ever proposed than the one here referred to?

The Barn Owl

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

IS the owl as wise as he's supposed to be? Perhaps it's only because he's solemn and thoughtful looking that he has gained that reputation. At any rate he gets credit for being wise till he proves himself otherwise. We must be very careful in judging children. Often we credit the easy spoken, quick acting child with superior ability when it may be the much quieter child who holds the greater intelligence. Do not brand a child a dullard because he may be dreamy and slow; give him a chance to develop and more often than not he'll surprise you by showing decided ability.

IN grandfather's barn
A great brown owl
Sleeps all the day on a rafter.
When dusky time comes
He starts flying about
And grandfather says that he's after
The mice and the flies,
And his weird strange cries
Are only his queer owlish laughter.

"Who? Who?" cries the owl
In grandfather's barn,
His great yellow eyes slowly winking.
He sits there and acts
Most uncommonly wise
With all of his nodding and blinking.
But I'm sure enough
He's only a bluff

Just sleepy, and not even thinking.
